'LE BALLON ROUGE' REVISITED

The fifth grade class of Jefferson Street School reenacted the story of "The Red Balloon", or as they presented it, "Le Ballon Rouge". The story was drawn in art class under the direction of fifth grade teacher, Mrs. Juanita Johnson, and then demonstrated in French to the school's first grade. The project was in keeping with the observance of National Library Week as the story written by Albert Lamiris won the International Children's Film Award. (Photo by Mansfield)

Irwin Man Found Guilty As Common Nuisance

A 23-year-old Irwin, Pa. man, the father of two, was found guilty of a charge of being a common nuisance yesterday by a jury of eight women and four men.

William Roscoe Roberts, however, was found not guilty of a second charge—that of malicious use of the telephone.

The third charge of using lewd lascivious and indecent language over the telephone was dismissed upon request of District Attorney Samuel F. Bonavita.

The charges stemmed from a series of telephone calls made by the defendant acting as a collector for a magazine subscription company in Pittsburgh to Mr. and Mrs. Dwight Work, who reside on Jackson Run rd.

The calls were placed mostly during late evening hours.

Mrs. Work, who was expecting a baby during the period the calls were made, acting on advice of her attorney finally complained to state police, who investigated.

Charges were filed against Roberts on the advice of the district attorney.

Mrs. Roberts was in the court room during the two-day jury trial with the couple's two and a half month old baby boy. They also have a two-year-old daughter.

Ball posted by Roberts was continued until May 12, when he is scheduled to appear for sentencing.

David Swanson was defense attorney and Richard Sidon, jury foreman. It took the jury panel two hours to reach their verdicts.

The defendant was the only person to testify in his behalf. Roberts told the jury he had been employed in a similar type of job with another company prior to starting to work for Auditor's Adjustment Association in October 1966, one of the companies owned and operated by Thomas S. Jason from his residence in Pittsburgh.

Roberts admitted having telephoned the Work residence the majority of the 31 times listed

Police, Fire Departments In Vain Search of Creek

Local fire departments, state police and borough police last evening took part in an extensive search of Conewago Creek following a report that an object thought to be a body appeared in the swollen stream.

A woman living in a cottage near Oakview Tavern telephoned borough police at 5:19 p.m. and reported that her husband had sighted an object which he thought was a body disappearing over the falls at a dam near the tavern.

At least four area fire department boats were launched in the creek. Local police were stationed at the Fifth st. bridge and emergency rescue trucks stood by.

TITUSVILLE, Pa. (AP)—Injuries incurred in an auto accident proved fatal yesterday to Arthur Hall, 66, of Titusville. Hall was injured Monday when an auto operated by his wife, Mabel, 62, hit a tree along Route 8 five miles south of Titusville.

Too Much NaCl In U. S. Diets

By ROBERT GOLDENSTEIN

CHICAGO (AP) — Typical American diets contain from 10 to 100 times as much salt as the normal healthy body needs, posing a potentially dangerous public health problem of high blood pressure, a medical researcher contended yesterday.

Dr. W.A. Krehl, a physician and biochemist in the department of internal medicine at the University of Iowa College of Medicine, said a meal consisting of meat, milk and fresh vegetables can contain 10 times as much salt as a healthy person needs even if none is added in cooking or at the dinner table.

"If the housewife sprinkles salt on the food before it is cooked and more salt is added at the table, the amount could be 5 to 100 times as much as the body needs for physiological reason," he said in an interview and paper at the annual meeting of the Federation of American Societies for Experimental Biology.

Four other nutrition researchers appearing on the same panel on obesity and caloric restriction said they agreed with Krehl's observation that most Americans consume much more salt than they need.

Krehl said in an interview that several medical studies have shown that the incidence of high blood pressure and cerebral vascular accidents (strokes) is higher in areas where commonly consumed foods are high in salt content.

He said the normal healthy body requires no more than 100 milligrams (a tiny pinch) of salt each day and that some high blood pressure patients who believe they are on a low salt diet actually are consuming more than they need.

He said a restricted salt diet principally of fresh fruits and vegetables with no or small amounts of unsalted meats and milk added contains five times as much salt as the body needs. Salt normally is present in meat and milk, and ordinary canned vegetables have salt added, he said.

Renewal Advisors Oppose Passage Of Borough Codes

By LES RICKEY

The local urban renewal program's Citizens Advisory Committee last night opposed passage of several codes required for a "workable program."

The committee, which acts as both a watchdog and an instrumental force in the urban renewal program, said it has had insufficient time to consider the proposed building, housing and plumbing codes.

The advisory committee said it received the proposed ordinances on April 13. Council announced its intention on April 10 to pass the codes at the next regular meeting, which is May 8.

Last night's resolution, which passed unanimously, stated:

"The Warren Area Citizens Advisory Committee requests Warren Borough Council to postpone adoption of the various codes and ordinances until the committee and the general public have sufficient time to study them.

"We realize that a delay at this time may hold up allocation of federal funds for the urban renewal program. Nevertheless, this committee is required under federal mandate to review and inform the public of the program and we have not had sufficient time to do this. The codes and ordinances were not available to us or the general public until April 13, 1967.

"We feel that the pressure of a deadline for application for federal funds is not, in itself, sufficient reason to hastily adopt codes and ordinances that may be in effect for many years."

The committee has no power to take direct action of its own, such as instituting redevelopment programs. It has, however, power to recommend and advise both the public and public bodies on all facets of the urban renewal program.

The opposition to passage of the codes did not, the committee stressed, constitute opposition to the codes themselves. In effect, it is not the content that the committee ob-

Air Force Jets Bomb Steel Mill

By EDWIN Q. WHITE

SAIGON (AP) — U. S. Air Force jets bombed the big Thai Nguyen steel plant yesterday in what was believed to be the biggest attack so far against the industry and railroad yards 38 miles north of Hanoi.

On the diplomatic front, Premier Nguyen Cao Ky's government welcomed a Canadian peace proposal and suggested that warring forces pull back from the demilitarized zone to help create a climate for talks.

A U. S. spokesman said the United States approved.

Little action was reported on the ground in South Vietnam, although headquarters disclosed a new operation that began April 2 with a parachute drop of a small U. S. Special Forces unit 65 miles northeast of Saigon.

There were no reports overnight of new activity in the far northern provinces, where work has begun on a fortified barrier to cut down infiltration and where additional U. S. troops have been moved to meet increasing Communist pressure.

U. S. spokesmen said early today they were unable to give details on yesterday's air raids over North Vietnam, but it appeared obvious the air war had picked up again, at least briefly. For weeks bad weather has curtailed bomb strikes against targets in the Communist North.

In a delayed announcement, the U. S. Command said operation Harvest Moon was kicked off April 2 in the Bu Nard area of Phuoc Long province. It began with a parachute jump by a U. S. Army Special Forces Pathfinder unit.

The jumpers were not op-

SEATO Ministers Warned of China

By JOHN M. HIGHTOWER

WASHINGTON (AP) — The SEATO Foreign Ministers Council, split by differences over the war in Vietnam, was warned yesterday that Communist China continues a serious danger to the security of the countries of Southeast Asia in spite of its internal political upheavals.

Jesus Vargas, secretary-general of the Southeast Asia Treaty Organization (SEATO), also told the council, meeting under the chairmanship of Secretary of State Dean Rusk, that Communist subversion and terrorist activities have recently become particularly intense in Thailand and the Philippines. He said the war in Vietnam has not prevented the Communists from pressing such activities in those two countries.

The council opened its Washington conference in a public session that produced flashes of discord which threw cold and bitter light on the efforts of some members to ignore or paper over the rifts in the alliance.

Secretary Rusk used the public meeting as a forum to issue a new peace appeal to North Vietnam, but he offered no new hope that his latest bid would get other than the "curt refusal" which he said North Vietnam had given to all past overtures.

Rusk, in his new peace appeal, said "I urge Hanoi to make use of some machinery or diplomatic process to engage in discussions that could lead to peace."

He said the United States is prepared to de-escalate the conflict "whenever we are assured that the North will take appropriate corresponding steps."

But Rusk himself had just told the conference that Hanoi has met with "curt refusal" every peace overture so far offered. And he indicated he does not expect any quick change in that attitude, speculating that Hanoi still believes it can win the fight for south Vietnam.

In a review of SEATO's connections with the war in Vietnam, Rusk recalled many occasions on which foreign ministers like those assembled here had issued warnings against "Communist aggression" or expressed "increasing concern" about Communist pressures in Southeast Asia.

But Thailand's foreign minister, Thanat Khoman, bluntly blamed much of Southeast Asia's warfare on "Seato's inaction and impotency."

Girl to Cover Knobby Knees

By PAUL VAN KOLKEN

BALDWIN, Mich. (AP) — Seventh grader Thyra Sweet is tired of knobby knees and tight fits.

So the hemlines at Baldwin High School are falling and the boys' temperatures are rising.

"It's kind of ridiculous," said junior Bob Bromley, 16, "The longer skirts hide the girls' legs and I think they should show them."

The revolt against miniskirts began Monday when 10 girls at the combined junior-senior high school wore skirts with hemlines four inches below the knee.

Lowering the hemlines began when seventh grader Thyra Sweet of nearby Bately complained to her mother, Mrs. Vernon Sweet, that some of her friends wanted to wear longer skirts because, "We're tired of tight fits and we're tired of looking at girls' knobby knees."

Mrs. Sweet said she would make the dresses if her daughter would wear them. Some other girls wanted longer hemlines and Mom Sweet began making dresses for them.

The male students object to the style.

"I don't like them at all," said Wallace Hale, 17. "Some girls just don't look too good in the long skirts."

Student Council President Terrie Harshberger thinks it will be hard for the group to change the current short styles. She added, "I don't think I would change my hemline."

Not all of the teachers were in favor of the longer skirts. Band teacher David Foy said, "I never did like granny skirts and some of these girls have them way down below their knees."

Thyra said a few more girls in the upper grade levels have joined in the "revolt" against short skirts and said nearly 20 girls have decided to wear the longer hemlines to school this week.

Erie Ship Yard Gets PIDA Loan For Construction

By WILLIAM E. DEIBLER HARRISBURG (AP) — Gov. Shafer said yesterday a $3.2 million industrial development loan has been approved by the state to help finance an $8 million shipbuilding plant at Erie.

The loan was approved by the Pennsylvania Industrial Development Authority (PIDA) for the Litton Great Lakes Corp., a subsidiary of Litton Industries Inc., of Beverly Hills, Calif.

E. Laurance Gay, president of Litton Great Lakes, said the plant would employ "unique methods of ship construction" to build ore-carrying vessels that are three times larger than any vessels now operating on the Great Lakes.

The plant, he said, is to use assembly line techniques much like those used by the aircraft industry in California.

Gay explained that some component parts would be built by sub-contractors at other plants — some of them outside Pennsylvania — but the vessels would be assembled at the Erie yard.

He said the vessels produced would be 1,000 feet long and 105 feet wide, in contrast to the 730 by 75-foot ore carriers which now are the largest vessels in use on the Great Lakes.

Surveyor Heads 'Down Barrel' Toward Moon

PASADENA, Calif. (AP) — Surveyor 3, its course refined by a series of short rocket bursts in space, headed "right down the old barrel" yesterday toward its target on the moon.

All it has to do to continue looking like a textbook success is: Brake itself to a gentle landing on the Sea of Storms Wednesday night, send earthward photos of itself and the terrain, then scoop some soil with its spindly arm and send back an analysis.

Scientists at the jet propulsion laboratory, controlling the mission, said odds don't favor perfection. But they said the same of Surveyor 1, which returned 11,250 pictures after landing last June. Surveyor 2 crashed due to guidance failure.

Jamestown Machinists Quit Strike

JAMESTOWN — Members of IAM Lodge 973 voted in a meeting in Hilltop Hall yesterday afternoon to end their brief strike against Rane Tool Division of AVM Corporation and accepted a new contract proposal made by the company.

Seventy-five members of the union had left their jobs at the Ross st. plant when the old contract expired Monday night.

Following yesterday's decision to accept the proposals of the new contract the regular night shift reported for work at 4:30 p.m. and it is expected that the day shift will report for work this morning.

Neither officials of Rane Tool nor Edmund Delane, president of the union, released any details of the new contract.

Carlson Named Chairman Of Jamestown Council

JAMESTOWN, N.Y. — Jamestown City Council last night elected veteran Democratic councilman John B. Carlson to serve as council president, filling the post vacated by the recent death of Frank R. Franco.

Carlson is serving his 14th year in city government, longer than any other man has served in recent years.

The appointment of Dr. William J. Tracy of 101 Forest ave. to fill Franco's council seat was unanimously approved.

Dr. Tracy, a pathologist at WCA Hospital, is chairman of the city's smoke abatement commission, vice chairman of the parks and recreation commission, and has been active with the local Democratic party as an advisor and financial chairman.

In another resolution, the architectural firm of Howard and Domenici was authorized to prepare schematic drawings for the new municipal building and fire station. The resolution passed by a vote of 10 to one, with Warren Erickson casting the lone dissenting vote.

Erickson said he was not sure of either the approximate size or cost of the proposed buildings, but that he believed it to be in the neighborhood of $4 million for the entire project.

Councilman Louis Peterson asked Erickson to justify the $4 million figure. Erickson said he could not do so. Peterson said that when the schematic drawings are completed, they will be brought to city council where changes can be made.

In other action, council endorsed a proposal by Jamestown Supervisor R. Theodore Smith calling for the creation of an air pollution control division in the county health department. The proposal is currently being considered by the county board of supervisors.

Councilman Joseph Spitalo submitted a resolution to have a majority of property owners sign a petition if they did not wish to have their street closed. It passed, eight to three. The action came after a previous resolution, which called for the closing of streets to be halted unless requested by a majority of abutting property owners on the street, was defeated.

Following a lengthy discussion, council approved a contract with Russell Trunzo & Son, Inc., of Jamestown, for the construction of two dugouts at Bergman Park at a cost of $3,750 for the two. The project brought strong opposition from Erickson and John Illig, Illig, a long-time critic of the city parks and recreation department, called the measure "ridiculous." Erickson said the city has operated without dugouts for more than 20 years and could continue to do so.

by the Commonwealth but indicated some of the calls might have come from Jason or another employee at the firm.

He also admitted the calls might have been annoying. His first contact was to establish the fact the contract for the magazine subscription had been signed and why payments were not being made. Roberts testified that Mrs. Work stated she would discuss the matter with her husband.

Roberts admitted that the name of Harold C. Kauffman was used by him during the series of calls and told the jury that no such person existed. The defendant claimed that he was told by Mrs. Work that the couple had consulted an attorney but refused to reveal his name or phone number.

Mrs. Work on Monday testified she had advised the man who said he was Kauffman to go ahead and sue and the Works would defend. The telephone calls persisted, despite this fact and that Robert Diks, manager of the Warren Bell Telephone Co. office, had warned the calls must stop.

It was revealed at the trial yesterday that Thomas S. Jason, who according to State Police Cpl. George Barron, investigating officer, used several aliases himself, had been subpoenaed by both the Commonwealth and the defense, was ill and unable to appear.

Bonavita, during cross examination, asked Roberts if this was the first time he had used a fictitious name. The defendant answered in the affirmative but stated he used, with permission of the individual, the name James Reed in his earlier job as a collector with another firm.

The district attorney inquired if the name "William Griffin rang a bell." Roberts said he had used the name, his step-father's, all through school and until his marriage on November 17, 1964.

Further cross examination revealed that while using the name William Griffin and relative to a traffic violation, Roberts had been charged by state police in Pittsburgh with disorderly conduct.

Roberts advised he had left Jason's employ and was now working for a company that specialized in educational supplementary material for schools and homes. He said he had no desire to return to the collection business.

It was the position of the defense that Robert's phone calls did not constitute conduct amounting to a crime.

Mao Propaganda Seeks Liu Death

By TILLMAN DURDIN
(c) N.Y. Times News Service
HONG KONG—Mao Tse-Tung propagandists are trying to gain support within the Chinese Communist bureaucracy through their attacks on chief of state Liu Shao-Chi and his partisans.

A major theme of the Maoists is that Liu represents a policy toward party cadres (officials) of "blaming the many in order to protect the few."

By this the Maoists mean that when government programs have gone wrong Liu and top party leaders associated with him have maintained the fault has not been with them and the programs but with the incorrect carrying out of programs by cadres.

Two articles appearing yesterday in the Peking newspaper Jenmin Jih Pao, relayed here by Hsinhua, the official Chinese Communist press agency, emphasized this theme in the campaign by Mao Tse-Tung partisans against Liu Shao-Chi and others.

Liu, party secretary general, been charged with actions ranging from efforts to restore capitalism to plotting a military coup.

The campaign is an outgrowth of Mao's drive, through the great proletarian cultural revolution, to revolutionize the Chinese Communist system and leadership.

One article in Jenmin Jih Pao called for the "emancipation" of cadres who had been "struck down" by the "bourgeois reactionary line" taken by the "number one party person taking the capitalist road" (the usual way of referring to Liu Shao-Chi).

The article said most cadres were trustworthy and should be permitted by the Maoist revolutionaries to remain in office and participate in the alliances with revolutionaries and the army that Maoists favor to control affairs throughout the country.

A second article in the Jenmin Jih Pao, given frontpage display, described how a majority of cadres in Shantung had been "rehabilitated" by Maoist revolutionaries after 60 to 70 per cent of them had been overthrown by the Liu Shao-Chi policy.

In the earlier stages of the cultural revolution, Maoists launched attacks on cadres in general, and the rank and file of cadres are unlikely to have forgotten this so soon.

The new Maoist tactic is seen as an effort to gain the badly needed cooperation of trained administrators and turn the party bureaucracy against Liu Shao-Chi and his faction.

Constitutional Party Chief Charges Shafer Falsehood

HARRISBURG (AP) — Edward S. Swartz, an unsuccessful Conservative candidate for governor last year, accused Gov. Shafer yesterday of intemperate statements in singling him out as a leading foe of the constitutional convention referendum on the May primary ballot.

"While I oppose the calling of a convention, I have not made one speech concerning this matter," Swartz said. "His (Shafer's) statement that I am one of several 'running around Pennsylvania ... twisting ... spider webs of frustration into a hangman's rope' is asinine and ridiculous."

In a speech prepared for a constitutional revision rally Monday night in Doylestown, Shafer said Swartz, Andrew Watson, and W. Henry McFarland, all self-acknowledged political conservatives, were part of a "strangle gang" leading the fight to defeat the limited convention call.

Shafer was unable, however, to deliver the speech in person when poor weather prevented him from flying into Doylestown for the meeting.

Swartz and Watson are the founders of the conservative Constitutional Party. McFarland a registered Constitutional Party voter, is a Philadelphia conservative who has filed a suit in Commonwealth Court to block the convention referendum from appearing on the May 16 ballot.

Swartz said in his rebuttal to Shafer's prepared text: "It is frightening to contemplate that the governor of the great state of Pennsylvania is so intemperate in his conduct that he finds it necessary to slander anyone who opposes his will."

"Instead of spewing such garbage like 'rope in hand,' 'measuring the throat of Pennsylvania,' 'hangman's rope,' and 'strangle gang,' why doesn't he tell us specifically what he wants to accomplish under a new constitution that cannot be accomplished under the present one."

"If he does this, I won't have to make any speeches. The people will know from him why to vote no."

Copters Kill 50 Enemy

(c) N.Y. Times News Service
SAIGON — Gunners aboard United States Army helicopters, the workhorses of the Vietnam war, killed 50 enemy Sunday, an American military spokesman reported.

In addition, the helicopter crews sank 20 sampans, destroyed 34 enemy fortifications and damaged 11 others.

"Slick," or unarmed, UH-1 "Hueys" designed to carry troops and cargo, transported nearly 14,000 soldiers and 974 tons of cargo Monday, the spokesman said.

There are more than 2,000 Huey helicopters in South Vietnam, the majority of them configured for troop and cargo transport. These aircraft are generally fitted with a pair of light machine guns, for their own protection.

The Hueys known as "gun ships" carry combinations of rapid firing machine guns, rockets and automatic grenade launchers. Often the gun ships are sent out to kill the enemy. They also have the job of spraying with machine gun fire landing zones before "Slicks" swarm in with hordes of troops.

Perhaps the most renowned gun ships are those in the Ninth Cavalry Squadron of the First Cavalry Division (Airmobile). Daily these pilots swing through the Communist-infested Anlo Valley northwest of Quinhon, asking to be shot at, in an operation they call "reconnaissance by fire."

If no one shoots at them, they spray a suspicious mountain side or thicket. When there is a response the little gunships either handle the situation alone or call for help.

In other helicopter action Monday, Airmobile Division ships armed solely with rockets smashed 21 enemy fortifications and damaged 21 more.

During an assault Monday afternoon with troops, a "Slick" was shot down six miles southwest of Saigon, the spokesman said. The pilot was killed.

LBJ Returns to Office; Problems in Novel Form

By MAX FRANKEL
(c) N. Y. Times News Service
SAN ANTONIO, Tex.—President Johnson was scheduled to head back to Washington last evening to confront a familiar set of problems in somewhat novel form.

The war news from Vietnam is simultaneously satisfying and frustrating, suggesting progress but without any basic change. The economy keeps bouncing in unusual patterns, threatening inflation and recession almost simultaneously. New and strange combinations in Congress threaten to chew up the President's program, while old and familiar political techniques seem to be coming back into favor at the White House.

Johnson's return to the White House will end a relatively serene eight-day interlude in which he divided his time between the summit meeting of American leaders in Uruguay and a long weekend of report reading and letter writing at his Texas ranch near here.

He remained in touch with the issues that await him in Washington, but he must now decide how to handle them through the summer. The dimensions of his main problems are roughly as follows:

The war is now bringing Johnson a perplexing mixture of good and bad news. American troops are said to be fighting well, while the number of Viet Cong defections continues to rise. Local elections are proceeding in the countryside, and hopes for the national elections are still bright.

But reports reaching the White House also suggest that the Communist forces are still fighting at their new and intensified level, inflicting heavy casualties both on American and on South Vietnamese troops and on the civilian "pacification" teams that are trying to operate in villages seized from Viet Cong control.

Nothing in the situation promises an early break. Johnson expects a particularly serious Communist military and political challenge to the Saigon government's attempt to hold national elections and to transfer power to a more representative regime.

In the economy at home, too, the President is confronted by perplexing combinations. War-time production schedules have reinforced a basic strength and account for continued expectations at the White House that a new boom will develop in the second half of this year.

But the slowdown of recent months has not yet been pronounced ended. Johnson's advisers continue to call it a basically healthy stabilization, but some economists remain worried by what they take to be signs of recession.

While eager to have Congress restore the suspended investment tax credits—special tax reductions to encourage new investments in plant and equipment—the President and his advisers are still formally asking for an income tax surcharge, an increase to take some money out of circulation to hold down inflation in the predicted boom period later this year.

But if the boom does not develop soon enough, the White House may wish to forego this restraining measure. In any case, Congress may not be persuaded of its necessity. Yet without a tax increase, the administration would run up a record budget deficit that could make an already naggingly Congress downright miserly.

Income Taxes and Reform

Opponents of revision of Pennsylvania's centuries-old Constitution have hurled the charge that such revision allowed by approval of a constitutional convention would open the way for establishment of a graduated income tax in the state.

This is a serious charge and one which, had it any basis, would merit consideration. The fact is, the charge is groundless.

When voters go to the polls on May 16, they can vote for or against a constitutional assembly. However, they need not worry themselves about the tax question, because the assembly cannot—under terms of the resolution (No. 9)— even consider the matter.

The convention is blocked from considering an income tax matter by a law signed this year by Gov. Raymond Shafer and passed by the General Assembly. The law specifically says that the convention may not modify, alter or change in any respect the "uniformity" clause of the Constitution's Article IX. This prohibits imposition of a graduated income tax by the Commonwealth or any of its subdivisions.

Such a charge, groundless in fact, casts suspicion on the sincerity of those who make it. It does not speak well of their intentions.

MASON DENISON

Dabbling With the Surpluses

HARRISBURG — One of the problems Governors of Pennsylvania seemed to be faced with these days is the irritating fact that they keep winding up with surpluses, when by constitutional decree there isn't supposed to be any such thing.

Governor Shafer, for example, is plagued with the frustrating fact that he has $78,000,000 left over from the last year of the preceding Scranton Administration with which he must dabble — or at least this is the projection by the end of the current fiscal year June 30.

It could be higher, it could be lower—depending upon the economic stance of the state in the quarter remaining. Chances are good it will slip upward a whit or two if current economic factors hold firm.

Undoubtedly this odd $78,000,000 has helped Mr. Shafer and his fiscal eagles in the preparation of their budget, from which they removed the "classified" stamp last week.

As matters stand now he only needs $300,000,000 more to make his ends meet.

Mr. Shafer isn't the only one to be thusly dogged by the surplus money facet.

Some of those who mounted the gubernatorial ramparts before him however were not quite so fortunate—or unfortunate.

There is for example Mr. Scranton's immediate gubernatorial forebear—the late Governor David Leo Lawrence, who had a fetish for fiscal responsibility, austerity and good book-keeping.

When he gained the key to the gubernatorial sanctum in 1959 from Governor George M. Leader, he stalked into the legislative lion's den in March of that year to allow as how he had inherited and therefore was faced with a deficit of $178,000,000.

This rattled his jowls no end and throughout his administration he fought for—and for the most part obtained—a semblance of a balanced budget, liquidation of the deficit and a peek at a surplus instead of a deficit.

He almost went out of office that way.

In the twilight hours of his administration in that gubernatorial election year 1962, the facts and figures streaming from the gubernatorial hangout atop Capitol Hill pointed indeed to a surplus for his successor.

However the election that fall produced a Republican "successor" to David ("Mr. Democrat") Lawrence who, perhaps because of opposing political faith, didn't quite see fiscal eye to fiscal eye with Mr. Lawrence.

In any event, by the time the new-in-office Republican Scranton Administration got through going over the books and wetting pencil points, lo and behold Mr. Lawrence was proclaimed to have departed with a $21,800,000 deficit.

It is just as conceivable that had a Democrat moved into the gubernatorial hotchpot this past January instead of Republican Raymond Philip Shafer, the figures might well have been juggled around to show a deficit for that last year of the Republican Scranton Administration.

A similar shuffle developed back in 1955 when then Democratic Governor Leader plucked the reins from Republican John S. Fine—at which point there was considerable shouting from Mr. Leader that he had "inherited" a frightening deficit from his Republican predecessor.

In any event, Mr. Shafer has not to face such demoralizing circumstance as a deficit; he's plagued with a surplus instead.

The situation at the moment is that the United States is increasingly backing South Vietnam, and the Soviet Union and China are increasingly backing North Vietnam—even over-coming other differences to ship arms via China—and the prestige of the great powers is getting more and more deeply involved in avoiding defeat.

This is not a situation that can be dismissed by blaming the Vietnam critics for shortsightedness, or trying to silence them by charging them with prolonging the war and increasing the deaths. The argument between Rusk and his opponents is bitter precisely because there are at least two contradictory sides to the question, both fiercely defended.

The administration's policy of opposing the threat or use of force in Germany, Cuba, the Congo, Korea, and Vietnam has undoubtedly maintained some kind of balance in these places and at the same time probably discouraged other aggressions by Sukarno in Indonesia, Nasser in Egypt and other adventurers elsewhere.

In this sense, it has helped "organize a durable peace." But pushed too far in Vietnam, it could easily destroy what it hopes to create. This is the point of Rusk's critics. They share his yearning for a world order, but are afraid he will lose it rather than gaining it in Vietnam.

Inside Humphrey's Visits

WASHINGTON—Vice President Humphrey's private report to President Johnson regarding his European trip was more optimistic than the reports appearing in the newspapers. This was because Hubert carried with him a secret weapon.

For years, as a Farmer-Labor Senator from Minnesota, Humphrey has been on intimate terms with the socialist-labor leaders of Western Europe. He has known Mayor Willy Brandt of West Germany, now minister of foreign affairs, from the days when Brandt was an exile from Hitler. He has known Harold Wilson, now prime minister of England, from the days when Wilson was a struggling member of the British Labour party. He first knew George Brown, now British foreign secretary, from the days when George was a member of the British Labour underground working with Ambassador Arthur Goldberg of the O.S.S. trying to win over labor support in the Nazi-occupied countries.

Finally, Humphrey had known two of the key leaders of Italy, Pietro Nenni, now vice premier, and Giuseppe Saragat, now president, long before they became part of the present coalition government.

Humphrey's No. 1 goal was to sell the Nuclear Nonproliferation Treaty to allies who are growing increasingly independent of the United States. The stiffest opposition came from the Germans and Italians, who not only resented taking second status to France but feared the treaty would hinder their economic development in the nuclear age.

Humphrey argued that, on the contrary, the treaty would relieve them of the financial burden of building a nuclear arsenal and would permit them to concentrate instead on building their economy.

He reminded the Germans that they were prohibited by their own constitution from becoming a nuclear power, and he pointed out to the Italians that they had signed the Nuclear Test-Ban Treaty which would prohibit them from testing any nuclear weapons they might develop.

Italian leaders insisted that they couldn't sign away their right to defend themselves against the weapons of the future. They were worried, for example, that neighboring Albania might receive nuclear weapons from Red China.

The Vice President, speaking behind closed doors to the Italian cabinet, pledged that the United States would never back down on her obligation to defend her NATO allies. He called attention to what is happening in Vietnam. "The Vietnam war is an unpopular, unhappy, painful, costly war," he declared. "Do you know why we are there? We made a commitment. We signed a treaty."

Those Female Foibles

The only people who can understand women are women, and they despise them. My comprehension of the foibles of my lovely wife, Kelly, and my four daughters is limited to listening. A run in a stocking can be a catastrophe. On the other hand, if I fall down a flight of stairs it induces girlish laughter.

Kelly, who is close to being sane at times, abhors gambling. My risks run to a few bucks at the tracks, a bob or two at roulette, a little gin rummy with a buddy, and trying to handicap the jai-alai players at Dania. I never bet more than

"Use your own money," I said. She did. Five dollars was placed on the red. Red came up. I kept playing my own system, known as "Bishop's Painless Method of Losing Slowly." She built the five up to $25. Then, while the little pill was racing against the wheel, she put it all on red. It came up black. I have never seen such a horrified look on a woman even when the villain sneaked into Mary Pickford's room, locked the door, and swallowed the key.

"What did you do that for?" I said. Her mouth hung open. "It came up red three times in a row, so I bet red." I punched the side of my head with the palm of my hand. "It came up red three times so you bet that it would do it four times?" I said. She nodded. "What else?" she said. "I thought the wheel was in a rut."

Last week, she was camping out at Gulfstream. She had all the tip sheets—Lawton, Riley, Dan Carter, Collier's, The Owl, Jack's and Ad-Tab—and she sat in the clubhouse studying their homework. Kelly had pencil, pen, a pad of foolscap, the Morning Telegraph, female intuition, and a waiter who was horse sick.

They agreed that the 12 horse Salute My Gal, would cha-cha home alone, so she played Waystoberg and it won. It's logical. In the second, the experts selected the 3 horse, Great Helen and my lady played Tez Morena, on the assumption that the mare pranced happily when she saw the track.

On Sunday, she murmurs: "If you're going to be kind enough to take me to the track tomorrow, I want to put an extra $5 in the collection plate at church. It's like bread cast on the waters."

When she loses, she comes home chastened. "I never liked gambling," she says, "and you know it. Why you insist on taking me along is more than I can understand." Or I...

Donate, Don't Discard

The other day I threw away an expensive toaster which I had dented by trying to toast a cheese sandwich in it instead of in the tray under it (yes, it was very, very late at night.) Although it was still usable, Louise, our housekeeper, refused to continue toasting bread in it, so finally I shamefacedly placed it in the space reserved by our New York apartment building for discards.

I was wrong. I should have given the toaster to a charitable organization which employs handicapped workers to restore items of this sort and which then sells the repaired merchandise to its thrift shops. The organization would have received a welcome donation; the handicapped worker would have had a job and the money paid by a customer for my toaster would have helped pay his or her salary; I would have had a tax deduction for the fair value of my contribution.

If's past April 15, you've filed your 1966 income tax return and it's too late to claim charitable deductions to cut your 1966 income tax to the legal minimum.

But now it's annual spring cleaning season, and precisely the right time to start accumulating charitable deductions which will help cut your 1967 income tax to its legal minimum.

If you are a typical family, these are the weeks in which you go through your closets, drawers, etc., and discard unwanted but still usable clothing, furniture, toys, appliances, equipment.

Don't throw away the items. Instead donate them to charitable groups which are eagerly seeking them.

While there are hundreds of thousands of worthwhile charities, there are only a comparative few nationwide organizations which collect used merchandise on a large scale for resale (Salvation Army, Volunteers of America, Goodwill Industries, Inc. are among the well-known names.)

Of these, Goodwill is the leading non-profit organization which has as its central aim the rehabilitation of the handicapped, which employs disabled persons to restore donated merchandise of every description and which then sells the repaired items in its thrift shops to help pay the workers' salaries.

If I'd given my dented toaster to Goodwill it could have been restored to almost new condition. The organization would have furnished me with a tax statement evaluating the appliance if I had requested the statement in a note sent with the item. I would have helped employ a disabled person who otherwise might have been on welfare and absorbing our tax dollars. Handicapped workers at Goodwill earn nearly $40 million a year, pay more than $2.5 million in Federal and State taxes annually.

Obviously, housewives are not the only ones who can save on taxes by charitable contributions of merchandise.

If you are a businessman about to spring-clean your office, you should check what tax savings you could achieve from a contribution of your used furniture and equipment. The total would depend on the amount of depreciation you already have claimed on your office things.

Or if you are a businessman with unsold new inventories, you may prefer the tax breaks from a donation to the chore of liquidating. As an illustration, say you head a corporation which earns more than $25,000 a year and which sells merchandise at a 40 per cent mark-up.

Say you donate $1,000 of your unsold inventories (cost to you $600). Your corporation gets a $1,000 charitable deduction which will save you $480 in taxes (48 per cent tax rate.) Your company's out-of-pocket cost, though, will be only $120 ($600 cost of merchandise less $480 tax saving.)

Now is the right time to assist a charity and get a bonus tax break by so doing. "Now" is always the right time when everybody comes out ahead.

Our Greatest Holiday

WASHINGTON — One of the things I find myself doing all the time is explaining our American holidays to friends from abroad. The other day a French friend visiting Washington asked me, "Why does everyone in the United States keep talking about April 15?"

"That," I replied, is known as Income Tax Day, although this year because it fell on a week end, we celebrated it on the 17th."

"Is it a religious holiday?" the Frenchman asked.

"Not exactly, though people pray a lot on it, and there is a good deal of weeping, breast-beating and shredding of clothes."

"How did it start?" the Frenchman wanted to know.

"No one is exactly sure. It's been with us as long as people can remember. While there are many Americans who would like to give it up, it's become so much a part of our lives that no one dares break with tradition."

"But what do you do on Income Tax Day?"

"You celebrate it by giving all the money you earned during the last year as a gift to the U.S. government."

"Then it's a happy day for the government?"

"Yes, it's a happy day for them, but there are no fireworks displays or anything like that. So many people have lost so much that the government feels it would be in bad taste to set off rockets."

"Do you have any special foods that you eat on that day, such as you do on Thanksgiving?"

"You eat whatever is left in the refrigerator. Some people have nothing left, so they make it a fast day."

"What are some of the other traditions associated with the day?"

"Well, in many houses it's a time when the family gets together and the father gathers his wife and children around him and tells them they are spending too damn much money. The father says the wife is responsible for trying to live beyond their means, and the wife tells the father that he ought to try running the house on what he gives her. And then the kids start crying, and everyone becomes pretty emotional about the whole thing. It's a moving sight to see."

"Do the department stores have sales, as they do on Lincoln and Washington's birthday?"

"No, because no one has any money left for gas, much less to go to a sale."

"Suppose you don't believe in Income Tax Day and refuse to celebrate it. What happens then?"

"Nothing much. You can ignore it completely if you want to and go to jail instead."

"Are there many political speeches made on the holiday?"

"Not many. Politicians have always felt April 15 was a family holiday, that the less they were seen that day the happier the families would be."

"Do you have anything like a Santa Claus?"

"Not really. There is a legend that at the stroke of midnight an Internal Revenue Service man comes down your chimney and plants a bug in your library. But only the children believe it."

"Does the Internal Revenue man ever leave any presents for the family?" the Frenchman asked.

"No, but sometimes he attaches your furniture."

"It sounds like a truly wonderful holiday, and I'm only sorry we don't have anything like it in France."

"That's because you French people don't really know how to have fun."

The Great Central Question

(c) N. Y. Times News Service WASHINGTON—In his private conversation and increasingly in his public statements, Secretary of State Rusk has recently been complaining that the world is losing sight of what he calls "the great central question of our day."

This is the question of how to organize a durable peace, how to establish rational rules of conduct for the peaceful settlement of disputes between nations, and specifically, how to abolish war as a means of achieving political objectives.

Rusk sees the formation of the United Nations, the creation of the Inter-American, European, Southeast Asian, and Middle Eastern security pacts, the negotiation of the defense treaties with Japan, the Philippines, Australia and New Zealand as inter-connected parts of a worldwide security system which will eventually bring order into international relations, if maintained, and leave the world in chaos if repudiated.

This is his central theme. This is his main defense of the Vietnam war. He thinks the system rests on the punishment of aggression, on the fulfillment of American commitments to oppose aggressors, with allies if possible, without them if necessary. His sincerity about this is plain, but what about his judgment?

Is the Vietnam war really helping to "organize a durable world peace," or is it weakening the very peace structure Rusk hopes to sustain and develop?

This is the question that is dividing the secretary of state from his Vietnam critics. The problem is not that everybody except the Johnson administration has forgotten "the great central question of our day," but that honest men differ fundamentally about whether Vietnam is promoting peace and order or war and disorder.

Is the war strengthening or weakening the United Nations? Is it fortifying or fracturing U.S.-Soviet relations, on which any durable world order so largely depends? Is it increasing or weakening Vietnam's capacity to block the expansion of China, which is a main objective of our policy? Is it strengthening or weakening the organization of peace in the NATO or any other alliance? Is it widening the split between Moscow and Peking or bringing them closer together?

Finally, what happens to the organization of a durable peace if Vietnam leads to a war with China as in Korea? Rusk is quite right in fearing that people will get so deeply involved in the day-to-day tactics and arguments of the war that they may forget the larger dangers. One of these is undoubtedly the danger of successful Communist aggression, but another is the danger of opposing the aggression so violently that it will bring China into the war.

The situation at the moment is that the United States is increasingly backing South Vietnam, and the Soviet Union and China are increasingly backing North Vietnam—even over-coming other differences to ship arms via China—and the prestige of the great powers is getting more and more deeply involved in avoiding defeat.

This is not a situation that can be dismissed by blaming the Vietnam critics for shortsightedness, or trying to silence them by charging them with prolonging the war and increasing the deaths. The argument between Rusk and his opponents is bitter precisely because there are at least two contradictory sides to the question, both fiercely defended.

The administration's policy of opposing the threat or use of force in Germany, Cuba, the Congo, Korea, and Vietnam has undoubtedly maintained some kind of balance in these places and at the same time probably discouraged other aggressions by Sukarno in Indonesia, Nasser in Egypt and other adventurers elsewhere.

In this sense, it has helped "organize a durable peace." But pushed too far in Vietnam, it could easily destroy what it hopes to create. This is the point of Rusk's critics. They share his yearning for a world order, but are afraid he will lose it rather than gaining it in Vietnam.

Nino Gives Emile Chance To Regain Crown July 13

By JACK HAND
Associated Press Writer
NEW YORK (AP) — Nino Benvenuti, the newly crowned world middleweight boxing champion, and Emile Griffith signed yesterday for a return bout Thursday, July 13, in New York at either Madison Square Garden or Shea Stadium.

The handsome 28-year-old Italian, winner of a unanimous decision over Griffith despite a fourth-round knockdown, will get 40 per cent of all receipts for the rematch. Griffith, who went into the ring Monday night a 13-5 favorite, will receive 20 per cent.

Nino Benvenuti Honors Verbal Pact

"He is a good fighter," said Benvenuti, his Italian monologue strained into English by an interpreter. "I fought a terrific man and I am very happy I won. The biggest thanks I want to give to Emile. He gave me the chance to fight him."

Griffith congratulated his successor. "You fought a beautiful fight," he said. "I want to congratulate you—one of the greatest fighters around. And I want to thank you also for giving me a chance to win back the title."

Griffith was down for a compulsory eight-count in the second round when Benvenuti drove him a right uppercut. The Italian was draped across the ropes and took an eight-count in the fourth when Griffith landed a long, looping right hand to the side of the head.

The crowd of 14,251 that paid $141,799, despite a chilling rain outside, turned the Garden into a little Italy with its chants of Neeno, Neeno, Neeno. They swarmed into the ring after the decision with a host of small Italian flags and hoisted the new champ on their shoulders. Police had to break up the demonstration.

Proudly watching the new champ take his bows were his blue-eyed wife and mother of his two children, Giuliana, and his father, Fernando, an Adriatic fisherman who encouraged his son to become a boxer.

Benvenuti, a native of Trieste in northern Italy, will return to Italy tonight.

Among the hundreds of cables received by the new champ was one from President Giuseppe Saragat of Italy which read: "Sincere congratulations for your brilliant feat which caps a sports career conducted with dedication and sincerity and honors Italian sports."

Benvenuti won the welterweight title in the 1960 Olympics and was voted the outstanding boxer in the Games although Cassius Clay also was a champion in the same Olympics. He has won 72 of 73 pro starts and was unbeaten as an amateur. The only pro to beat him was Ki-Kim-Soo, a Korean, in Seoul, Korea, June 25, 1966.

Harry Markson, managing director of boxing at the Garden, said he was exploring the possibility of Shea Stadium, home of the New York Mets, as a site. The Mets are out of town July 13, the first day after the three-day baseball break for the All-Star game. However, the Garden, with a stepped up price scale and a guarantee against any rainouts, appeared to be the most likely site.

Vet Driver In Turbine Car at 500

CHICAGO (AP) — Parnelli Jones, veteran of six Indianapolis 500-mile races and winner in 1963, spiked rumors of retirement yesterday by announcing he will drive the radically new turbine car in this year's Memorial Day 500.

Jones, 33, from Palos Verdes, Calif., had been the driver for car owner J.C. Agajanian in his six Indy starts.

Jones tested the STP turbo car, owned by Andy Granatelli, recently at Indianapolis and attained lap speeds of better than 162 miles per hour.

"It has a throttle response I have never experienced before in racing," he said. "Acceleration is really blinding. The safety features provide a great feeling of security and I feel that the dependability that results from the kind of engineering this car has will further boost our chances of winning."

"The fact there is no noise means less driver fatigue. I just couldn't ask for a better ride."

Jones, a veteran of U.S. Auto Club national championship motor racing, has driven 934 of a possible 1,200 laps in his previous Indy races.

He twice has been a pole-sitter, pacing qualifications in 1962 and 1963. In addition to winning in 1963, he was second in 1965, seventh in 1962 and 12th in his first attempt, in 1961.

UNNAMED COLLEGE COACH INVOLVED

East Grid Betting Query Impeded by New York DA

BIRMINGHAM, Ala. (AP) — The executive director of the National Collegiate Athletic Association said yesterday the NCAA's investigation of an alleged college football betting scandal has been frustrated by a district attorney.

The NCAA official, Walter Byers, released to the Birmingham News his correspondence with William Cahn, district attorney of Nassau County, New York.

Cahn announced at Mineola, N.Y., on Feb. 10 that he had crushed a nationwide betting syndicate and that he had evidence that one of the leading coaches in the country had bet on his own team.

Cahn has declined to identify the coach, except to say he was not from the east.

"We have been frustrated...in our efforts to discharge the responsibility which has been given to our office by the member institutions of the association," Byers wrote Sports Editor Benj. Marshall in response to a request for a progress report. Cahn had said earlier that he would not release the name of the coach he said had bet, "chiefly because I don't want to."

Asked for his position, Cahn issued a statement from his Mineola, N.Y., office which said: "Whenever I believe that the ends of justice will be served by the public release of information, I'll do so. Until that time I will continue to investigate all matters in my office without premature disclosure which will, in my opinion, dramatically affect the outcome of the investigation."

Cahn previously has said, in response to questions, that the coach denies any involvement, and that he expected his investigation to last upwards of a year.

Byers' position is that if Cahn has significant information, it should be released; if he doesn't, he should say so. Here are samples from Byers' letters to Cahn:

Feb. 15 — "I am sure that you are cognizant of this association's sensitivity in this area, and its obligation and responsibility...It would be appreciated if Mr. Bergstrom could meet with you and discuss the matter on a confidential basis."

Feb. 24 — "In light of the wide distribution of your remarks, it is difficult to understand your feeling that it would be inappropriate and inadvisable to release any evidence or information to any other than a law enforcement agency."

"May I suggest that you consider this association as a law enforcement agency. The 609 member institutions and organizations of the NCAA consider our association to be just that..."

"I might say that we have enjoyed past cooperation of this kind from such sources as District Attorney Frank Hogan of New York and Sen. John McClellan, chairman of the U.S. Senate permanent committee on investigations..."

March 6 — "Mr. Bergstrom attempted to call you last week without success. He did talk with your public relations representative, at which time Mr. Bergstrom left his number with the request that you call him March 3. We didn't receive your call..."

April 1 — "This will acknowledge your March 23 letter. I would be less than frank if I did not tell you how disappointed I am at the position you have taken..."

"I feel that your position...would be based upon sounder grounds if you had not announced to the national press associations evidence you supposedly had concerning the alleged activities of an unnamed college football coach."

"Your inclination to discuss allegations with the news media, but your reluctance to discuss them (with the NCAA) is somewhat difficult to comprehend."

"It will be necessary for me to make a report of this matter."

Finsterwald Pulls Out of Dallas Open

DALLAS, Tex. (AP) — The field for the $100,000 Greater Dallas Open Golf Tournament rested at 145 yesterday with the withdrawal of Dow Finsterwald.

Finsterwald said, after playing a practice round, that he would have to return to his home club and miss the tournament that starts Thursday over the 6,777-yard Oak Cliff Country Club course.

Old-Timer Team Loses Loop Bid

Dick Pearce, spokesman for the Youngsville Old-Timers, said last night that his team has been denied admittance into the Recreation Softball League.

Pearce said that he attended a meeting of the league last night at which time the loop officials said that the Old-Timers team would, in all probability, be forced to forfeit too many games. The forfeiture of many games would detract from the standing of the league.

Pearce took the setback in stride by announcing that his team would now play an independent schedule. He said that they would play exhibition games against the Rec League teams.

Pearce also said that there would be a meeting soon to measure the players for their uniforms.

Japanese Favorites In Boston Marathon

BOSTON (AP)—Japan's four representatives are expected to stick with successful strategy and run opposition into the ground for a third straight Nippon victory today in the 71st annual Boston A.A. Marathon.

Despite competition from the national champions of New Zealand, Finland and Italy and American standouts in the record field of 735 entries, the Japanese are expected to continue their domination of the 26-mile, 385-yard Patriot's Day classic from Hopkinton to Boston.

As in the past two years, the biggest question appears to be: which member of the Japanese contingent will be crowned with the laurel wreath and collect the diamond-studded gold sunburst medal for finishing first? In 1965, Japan sent five runners to the BAA and had a 1-2-3-5-6 finish. Belgian champion Aurele Vandendriessche, the winner the two previous years, was surrounded as the Japanese applied cat-and-mouse pressure for more than 20 miles, but managed to hang on to fourth place.

Morio Shigematsu set a Boston record of 2:16:33, but failed to qualify for a return trip in 1966. Then, four newcomers took turns setting the pace, wearing out Norman Higgins of Santa Monica, Calif., and Dave Ellis of Toronto.

With the field disposed of in a team effort, the sons of Nippon turned the long grind into a sprint in the final five miles, fighting each other. Young Kenji Kimihara took the lead with one half mile to go and led a 1-2-3-4 finish in 2:17:11.

Tooru Terasawa, 32, who finished third a year ago, is the only returnee. Terasawa served as coach of the 1965 entry and figures he will do better without that burden in his second attempt.

Terasawa's running mates are Hidekuni Hiroshima, 29, Yutaka Aoki, 22, and Takashi Inoue, 23, all of whom have run marathons under 2:16.

Foreign standouts seeking to end the Japanese reign include Dave McKenzie, a 23-year-old New Zealand miner; Kalevi Ihakki, 23, a Finnish farmer; Antonio Ambu, 31, a timing engineer in Italy; Daniel McFadden, a British Royal Navy petty officer; Canadians Andy Boychuk and Ron Wallingford, and four Mexicans led by Fidel Negrete.

America's top prospects for a high finish include Johnny Kelley, 36, of Groton, Conn., the only U.S. runner to win the BAA since the end of World War II, and former Dartmouth star Tom Laris, who finished seventh in his first marathon last year.

Court Rules Against Jim Walker

PROVIDENCE, R.I., (AP) — A Boston municipal court judge has placed Providence College's All-America basketball player Jim Walker on six years probation after he pleaded guilty to a charge of fathering a child out of wedlock, it was confirmed yesterday.

Walker was given the sentence by Judge Samuel E. Eisenstadt when he appeared in court on the charge last Tuesday.

Court officials said the paternity complaint was brought against the 23-year-old Walker by a Roxbury, Mass., woman. He could not be reached for comment.

The Friar ace led the nation in scoring this past season with a 30.4 points a game average.

He already has been drafted by the Indianapolis entry in the new American Basketball Association and reportedly will be the first draft choice of the National Basketball Association's Detroit Pistons when the NBA draft is held later this spring.

Football Flashback

NEW YORK—By mid-January most football fans were slightly punchdrunk from the heavy pounding they had been getting on their television screens through saturation coverage of a long and over-exposed season. But they have recouped in the intervening three months and were able to take without wincing a highlight film of The Superbowl Extravaganza that the tubes whisked into their homes the other night. It was much more fascinating in capsule form than it was in the original.

One noticeable change has occurred since the 35-10 crushing of the Kansas City Chiefs of the American Football League by the Green Bay Packers of the National Football League. Before the game and for a time afterward, the N.F.L. was polite almost to the point of deference, lavishly praising the other league as a feared and respected foe.

But there was no shilly-shallying in the cinema reprise. The N.F.L. was gloating about its superiority. Come to think of it, though, Green Bay was superior, especially in the second half, when the Packers lowered the boom on the Chiefs and turned a relatively close game into a runaway. What gave the film an extra appeal were some intimate sideline shots. When Max McGee scored his second touchdown, he trotted to the bench and Jim Taylor gave him an approving whack on the back.

"That shakes 'em up, baby," he said. It sure did. There was another moment not far from the end when Donny Anderson, the $650,000 bonus baby, swept wide and trampled all over Fred (The Hammer) Williamson, the boastful Chief defender whose karate-like hammer slashes were supposed to make the Packers beg for mercy. Anderson knocked him colder than a Kansas City winter.

"Who's out?" asked a smiling Herb Adderly. "The Hammer got it," said Willie Davis, laughing in delight. Unfortunately the sound track missed Fuzzy Thurston's classic crack about the wealthy rookie. "Anderson must have it him with his wallet," said the droll Fuzzy.

By that time the Packers were relaxed and happy. But there were anxious moments earlier when Len Dawson, the slick Chief quarterback, performed acts of legerdemain with the ball, faking to the fullback and then throwing passes against a defense that put no pressure on him. Eventually, though, the wise Packers stopped going for the fake and rushed in to give Dawson a dreadful going-over, smothering him thoroughly. At one point the camera flashed onto Hank Stram, the Kansas City Coach, staring onto the field.

"He ponders an impossible problem," said the narrator. The statement was not exaggerated.

If the Packers had any heroes who could be singled out, they had to be Bart Starr, the quarterbacking architect of the victory, and McGee, his main accomplice in a destructive passing attack. The narration points out that McGee, who was so little used during the season that he caught only four passes, replaced the injured Boyd Dowler on the third play and caught seven passes for 138 yards and two touchdowns. The first of these scoring romps, also repeated in slow motion, came after a dizzy, one-handed catch worthy of Willie Mays.

Once the Packers put the clamp on Dawson he was continually falling short of the required yardage on the vital third-down plays. But his opposite number, Starr, picked the Chiefs apart as he victimized the cornerbacks. He needed 5 yards and got 10; he needed 10 and got 15; he needed 6 and got 11—and so it went, coming through with the big play without fail.

With smug graciousness this documentary—it was produced by N.F.L. Films—admits, "Kansas City did have some stars but Green Bay was a team of stars." Tribute even was paid to some with vivid shots of fine Kansas City defensive plays by E. J. Holub, Bobby Bell and Buck Buchanan, along with "skittering stop-and-go runs through the Green Bay defenses."

A relatively close game—it was 14-10 at the half—fell apart in the third quarter when the Packers panicked the Chiefs with a blitzing defense that led to a 50-yard pass interception by Willie Wood. The touchdown that ensued turned it into a rout. By the end it was a laughter for Green Bay, just as sideline shots of the benchwarmers indicated.

Since both major networks fought for the TV audience before the Superbowl Game was played, it was the most extravagantly advertised show that television ever had. That's why it drew an estimated 65,000,000 customers to the sets, the largest viewing audience in history—or so it is claimed. It was not the most sensational game ever played but when crammed into a half-hour package it is bright, lively and spectacular. If the N.F.L. looks superior, that's undoubtedly because it is.

Brezhnev Suggests World Red Talks

By HANNS NEUERBOURG
BERLIN (AP) — Leonid L. Brezhnev declared yesterday the time had come to prepare for a world conference of Communist parties. But to avoid the feud with Red China, the Soviet party leader keyed the call to a need for greater unity in supporting North Vietnam.

The Kremlin has been calling for a world conference with the apparent aim of kicking Red China out of the Communist movement. But wishing to avoid a break with Peking, Romania, Yugoslavia and the Italian Communists have balked at such a meeting.

Addressing 2,200 delegates to the East German Communist party convention in East Berlin, Brezhnev said:

"The aid — for the North Vietnamese — would be even more efficient and the fiasco for the adventure of the imperialistic aggressors could be reached considerably faster if there was a united action of all socialist countries, including China, in the planning and practical help for the fighting Vietnamese people."

He then immediately mentioned the importance of strengthening Communist unity through a "new international deliberation of the Communists which is put on the agenda by the development itself."

"Many fraternal parties have spoken in favor for such a deliberation which would be attended by all parties interested in closing the Communist ranks," he said.

In what appeared to be a conciliatory reference to those objecting to a world conference, Brezhnev said Moscow "agreed with the opinion of the fraternal parties" that a world conference "requires great and careful preparation."

The one-hour address conspicuously avoided direct criticism of China raised by other convention speakers. At several points, Brezhnev received standing ovations from the delegates in East Berlin's Werner-Seelenbinder sports hall.

Commenting on Vietnam, Brezhnev charged that the United States is fighting a "robbery war" that would eventually end in its defeat.

Vatican Warns Catholics to Observe Church's Birth Control Teachings

By GERALD MILLER
VATICAN CITY (AP) — The Vatican sternly warned Roman Catholics yesterday that they must still observe their church's teachings against artificial contraception.

The reaffirmation of the traditional stand appeared in a blunt editorial in the Vatican newspaper "L'Osservatore Romano." There was speculation that Pope Paul VI himself had written it or ordered it written.

The unsigned editorial declared that the Pope's encyclical "Humanae Vitae" — the development of peoples — issued last March 28 must not be misinterpreted as containing any changes on birth control. It said the encyclical's reference to the problem "must be read in the context of the teaching of the church."

While the editorial was essentially another restatement of the church's established position, its timing and length gave it special importance. It was the longest editorial yet on the developing birth control debate.

It was the first official comment to come from the Vatican since the weekend publication in an American Catholic weekly of the secret report from the Pope's birth control commission urging him to permit contraception.

Public disclosure of the report's contents upset Vatican officials. Many saw it as an attempt to force the Pope before he was ready into making the statement on birth control that he has promised.

Pope Paul has also asserted that until any changes in the birth control rules are made the rules are not in doubt and Catholics must not resort to mechanical or chemical means of contraception. The only means of birth control permitted by the church are total abstinence or the periodic abstinence of the rhythm method.

GOP Seeks Federal Tax Credit for Employers

By WILLIAM T. PEACOCK
WASHINGTON (AP) — A Republican study group has suggested that a federal income tax credit be given employers for training workers in skills which are in short supply.

The credit, to be keyed to costs of the training, was one of five proposals advanced by a GOP task force on job opportunities and welfare.

The report was endorsed by the Republican coordinating committee at its session here April 3, and was released yesterday by the GOP national committee.

The other suggestions:

— A national survey be undertaken to determine what skills are needed now and what skills will be in demand in future years.

Electronic Eavesdrop Favored

HERSHEY, Pa. (AP) — Gov. Shafer said yesterday that he is in favor of law enforcement officers using electronic eavesdropping devices provided it is done "under strict supervision of the courts."

He told a luncheon of the Pennsylvania Association on Probation, Parole and Correction that he disagrees with President Johnson's proposal to use the devices only in matters involving national security.

"I favor amendment to federal and state laws which would permit the use of such technological devices under strict supervision of the courts," he said.

He also said the national security is being threatened by crime, and that "we must not limit an effective war on crime just as we would not restrict a total effort against any foreign aggression."

He said he believed the tools law enforcement agencies use to fight crime "are woefully inadequate."

"In my view, we must utilize every weapon to eliminate crime from our society, while preserving those ancient rights guaranteeing due process to all citizens," he said.

He said Pennsylvania has undertaken several steps that parallel recommendations made by the President's Commission in Law Enforcement and Administration of Justice.

One of these steps, he said, was his appointment of a crime commission to study problems concerned with administration of justice and to prepare a comprehensive program for the improvement of law enforcement.

Humphrey Calls for Thinking On Transportation Problem

By JOE KROVISKY
PITTSBURGH (AP) — Vice President Humphrey said Tuesday the many ills of mass transit defy a common solution and called for hard thinking on the problem for private industry, and public officials.

At the heart of the matter, he said, is a transportation system that serves the people best.

"We have to get to the soul of the subject," Humphrey told the second International Conference on Urban Transportation.

"We have to find out what people really want, and people will really use," he said, "and what people are really willing to invest in with their tax dollars."

Humphrey said urban transit is declining in cities because many are "assigning it unreasonable and impossible tasks."

He said cities must first decide what urban transportation really is and raised the possibility of a free transportation system paid for by taxes.

"If, for example, a community should decide that public transit is a cost of doing business, then perhaps public transit should be free—as the elevators in a building are free," he said.

He called the nation's transportation system the "lifeline of our social lives" and said the country has "done very little research" in that area.

The amount of money the federal government has allocated to study urban transportation problems is minimal, Humphrey said, and in an aside remark, asked Rep. William S. Moorhead, D-Pa., and Sen. Joseph S. Clark, D-Pa., to fight against any congressional attempts to cut that part of the budget. They were seated on stage with the vice president.

Humphrey said mass transportation is a major social factor in people's lives and also is a factor of national security.

He asked his audience to imagine a bomb scare in New York City and the "unbelievable bedlam" that would evolve as people fled the city.

Across the street from where Humphrey spoke, a handful of college-age persons staged a peaceful demonstration against the war in Vietnam. The vice president's car passed them as it departed for the airport.

"We find no present unconstitutional impediment in the act," Justice Cohen wrote.

The act, he wrote, places all fiscal authority, both the expenditures and the raising of funds in the local sponsor.

The taxpayers also argued that the act violated that part of the state constitution which forbids a municipality from lending its credit to any corporation, association, institution or individual.

Cohen said that the state Supreme Court held that this applies only to transactions with a purely private enterprise.

"Under the act," Cohen wrote, "a community college is designated a public institution and the academic and general control exercised over it by the state board of education and the local sponsor confirms this status."

The measure is included in Shafer's civil rights legislation, and the governor was quick to hail House passage as a statement.

A similar bill passed the House two years ago, but was killed in the Republican-controlled Senate. Senate sources indicated that the measure most likely would run into difficulty, again.

Both chambers will return today.

In other developments:

Absentee—A four-bill package designed to revise Pennsylvania's absentee voting laws was introduced in the Senate, with Sen. Larry Coughlin, R-Montgomery, the prime sponsor. The major proposal would permit a voter to cast an absentee ballot simply because he was away from his home polling place election day. Present law requires a citizen to be "unavoidably absent" to vote by absentee ballot.

House Passes Tax-Sharing Sabbatarian Relief Bill

By VINCENT P. CARROCI
HARRISBURG (AP) — The House cleared two pieces of Shafer Administration legislation yesterday, a resolution calling for the adoption of a federal tax-sharing plan and the so-called sabbatarian relief bill.

They represented the first administration measures to pass either the House or the Senate in more than one month.

The tax-sharing resolution was passed on almost a straight-party vote, 101-90, after an hour of debate with Republicans in favor and Democrats generally opposed.

The sabbatarian bill won bipartisan support on a vote of 162-31 with no debate.

Both pieces of legislation went to the Senate.

The tax-sharing resolution would petition Congress to convene a constitutional convention to draft a plan for the federal government to return a portion of its tax revenues to the states, no strings attached.

Gov. Shafer has written the other 49 governors asking them to support identical resolutions in their legislatures.

It would take 34 states to petition Congress to convene the convention.

The sabbatarian relief measure would permit merchants who worship on a day other than Sunday to be opened for business on Sunday, so long as they were closed on their Sabbath. Merchants of the Jewish faith would be the prime beneficiaries.

The measure is included in Shafer's civil rights legislation, and the governor was quick to hail House passage as a statement.

A similar bill passed the House two years ago, but was killed in the Republican-controlled Senate. Senate sources indicated that the measure most likely would run into difficulty, again.

Both chambers will return today.

In other developments:

Absentee—A four-bill package designed to revise Pennsylvania's absentee voting laws was introduced in the Senate, with Sen. Larry Coughlin, R-Montgomery, the prime sponsor. The major proposal would permit a voter to cast an absentee ballot simply because he was away from his home polling place election day. Present law requires a citizen to be "unavoidably absent" to vote by absentee ballot.

Bradford Campus Given 78 Acres

BRADFORD — The University of Pittsburgh campus in Bradford grew by $25 million in preliminary plans released Tuesday.

The expansion plan was announced in conjunction with the disclosure of a gift of 78 acres of land by Witco-Kendall. The development will provide facilities for up to 5,000 students and add an estimated $3 million per year to the city's economy.

Dr. Donald E. Swarts, campus president, said finances have been built up which provide for beginning the huge project. The county has set aside $50,000; city council has set aside $30,000, Foster Township has voted $10,000, and Bradford Township has appropriated $10,000.

The 78 acres of land is in the Corydon - Washington streets

Airport Flooded At Erie

ERIE — Almost all arrivals and departures at the Port Erie Airport were canceled yesterday morning due to water on the runways.

Allegheny Airline's canceled six flights of eight scheduled between 7 a.m. and 3:52 p.m. Two flights with restricted weight departed on a short runway.

Lake Central airline canceled one arrival from Buffalo, N.Y., scheduled to depart at 8:08 a.m. after landing here. One Lake Central flight was circling the airport at 11 a.m. awaiting orders to land or find another port.

The water is believed to be overflow from the old Erie Canal located south of the runways, but this report has not been confirmed.

Mohawk airlines had no flights scheduled for yesterday morning.

Salary Raised

BRADFORD — The salary of city manager Milton E. Lopus has been raised from $12,000 to $15,000. He will not be allowed a $500 allowance for an auto under the new system.

Spring Spruce Campaign Set By Merchants

The Progressive Merchants Association will kick off its "Spruce Up for Spring" promotion Friday, distributing 3,000 spruce trees to be given away by the merchant members.

The trees will be distributed on the basis of complimentary tickets during sales days. Customers can pick up their trees by turning over the tickets at the tree distribution points.

The trees will be distributed at DeFrees Playground, at General Joseph Warren Park, and Celeron Park. Hours for distribution are Friday afternoon and evening and all day Saturday.

Cards were distributed to the merchants today.

PLAN HOME STREET FUN FAIR

This group got together yesterday to make plans for the Home Street Fun Fair, slated for the afternoon of May 10. The one-day event, from 4 to 8 p.m., will feature spud golf, food, charcoal sketches, and a variety of other activities.

Chautauqua School of Music Announces Faculty Members

CHAUTAUQUA — The Chautauqua School of Music opens July 3 for its seven-week season.

The Music School continues to expand and to maintain an exceptionally high caliber of instruction, offering an intensive, well rounded program of study and musical activities in all areas of music. Numerous scholarships available present opportunity for talented young people to study at Chautauqua. Syracuse University offers credit possibilities for most applied music courses.

For 1967, nearly all of the outstanding faculty will return. Internationally known O z a n Marsh will again serve as director of the piano department. He will be ably assisted by Mrs. Marsh, Miss Muriel Kilby, Henry Rauch, and John Bracey, Millard Taylor, professor of violin, Eastman School of Music and concertmaster of the Chautauqua Symphony Orchestra, also will return to head the String Department. He will be assisted by Isidor Desser, Concertmaster of the Toronto Chamber Orchestra, and a member of the Chautauqua Symphony; Miss Shirley Trepel, and Donovan Schumacher, cello; Bernard Linden, viola; and Robert Leininger, bass.

Other outstanding members of the Chautauqua Symphony Orchestra to teach in the music school this season will be Charles Hols, trumpet; James Pellerite, flute; Arthur Kube, bassoon; Sidney Saltzman, saxophone-bass clarinet; Chester Roberts, tuba; Carl Wilhelm, trombone; and David Sprung, horn.

The voice department will again be under the experienced and capable direction of Miss Josephine Antoine, professor of voice, Eastman School of Music. She will be assisted by Miss Charlene Chadwick, assistant professor of music, University of Hawaii, who will also teach the Opera Workshop and This Week's Opera.

The Music School will continue to emphasize theory with Professor David Holden of Mount Holyoke College, returning to offer credit courses for Syracuse University, as will Professor Abraham Velnus of the Syracuse faculty Richard E. Wilson, Assistant Professor of Music, Vassar College, will serve as a member of the Chautauqua staff, teaching both credit and non-credit courses.

Others returning from previous years are Robert V. Woodside, official organist at Chautauqua and organist-choirmaster, Valley Forge Military Academy, organ; Philip D. Kaufman, registered craftsman with Piano Tuners Guild, piano tuning; James A. Walker, assistant professor, Harvard University, to direct the Student Symphony and the Student Preparatory Orchestra, as well as the Wind Ensemble.

A highlight of the 1967 season for the Music School will be the choral workshop to be offered by Paul J. Christensen during the week of August 18 to 26.

For free illustrated booklets giving full details of the summer school activity, write Joseph C. Clarke, Vice President, Education, Chautauqua Institution, Chautauqua, New York 14722.

Warren Players Begin Rehearsal

Rehearsals for the final presentation of Warren Player's 1967 Season of Comedy are rapidly progressing since the cast has been named for the play "Mary Mary".

The production, which was written by Jean Kerr, author of "Please Don't Eat the Daisies," enjoyed a long run on Broadway.

Henri LeMeur, director for the Players Club version of the play, noted that much chaos and confusion is contrived in the plot.

Les Schnarrs will appear as Bob McKellaway, a young independent publisher in his late thirties and burdened with domestic and financial problems.

Sandy Donaldson will portray the title role of Mary. Mary is

Bar Association Urges Passage of Amendments

At a recent meeting of the Warren County Bar Association, the members adopted a resolution endorsing the seven constitutional amendments to be voted on in the May primary election and favoring the calling of a Constitutional Convention next fall.

The action by the local Bar is in accord with the position of the Pennsylvania Bar Association, which has been one of the main proponents of constitutional reform.

S. Knox Harper, President of the Warren Bar Association said, "Constitutional reform is no longer a luxury we can afford to do without. It is absolutely essential if Pennsylvania is to move forward. Without reform, the Commonwealth will be hopelessly handicapped in trying to cope with modern-day problems".

Harper urged all citizens of Warren County to vote for the seven amendments which will be on the ballot next month. He also asked for a vote in favor of calling a Constitutional Convention to work out further amendments in the fields of legislative apportionment, the judiciary, taxation and state finance, and local government.

If the electorate approves the calling of a Constitutional Convention at the May primary, delegates will be elected at the general election in November and the convention will convene in December.

William M. Hill Jr., chairman of the Bar Association public relations committee, noted that many people feared a graduated state income tax would result if a Constitutional Convention were held. Hill said that the convention, if called, would be prohibited from even considering enactment of such a tax. He further stated that any amendments proposed by the convention would have to be voted on by all of the people of the state at a later election.

"The convention is the fastest way to accomplish modernization of the antiquated provisions which will remain after the seven amendments to be voted on next month, are enacted," Hill concluded.

Jaycees Search for Candidates

While members of the Jaycees beauty pageant committee continue to scour the county for Miss Warren County candidates, plans are well underway for another facet of the pageant — the official program for the Miss America - sanctioned event.

The program is similar to that used in the Miss America contest. Pageants throughout the nation use the book at their ceremonies.

It features pertinent information about the Miss America contests, has information about the current Miss America, and lists the attributes of individual candidates in the local contest.

All photos of candidates must be entered by Friday in order to establish the program, arrange the local pageant plans, and prepare publicity, the committee has announced. John Kod Studios is official photographer for the event.

Entries will be accepted after Friday, but they cannot appear in the program.

An entry blank appears on Page C-8 of today's Times-Mirror and Observer.

School Districts Can Get Sewerage

(TMO Harrisburg Bureau)

HARRISBURG — Legislation sponsored by State Senator Richard C. Frame of Franklin would provide for payment of up to two per cent annually in state funds to school districts toward the cost of operating and maintaining sewage treatment plants built or acquired by the school district.

The Frame measure would amend a law enacted in 1953, which provided for such payments to municipalities toward the cost of operating and maintaining sewage treatment facilities under the Clean Streams program.

State funds to school districts would be applied "to operating, repairing, replacing and other expenses relating to sewage treatment plants owned by them," the same as in the case of sewage disposal plants owned by municipalities.

Payments to school districts to apply to operating and maintenance costs would be based on the cost of construction or acquisition of the facilities, according to the Frame legislation. This is also the basis of payments to municipalities under existing law.

Shafer to Speak At State Rec, Park Conference

Gov. Raymond Shafer will be the keynote speaker next month during the three-day annual state conference of the Pennsylvania Recreation and Park Society.

The meeting will be held in Harrisburg from May 1 through May 3. Gov. Shafer will speak on May 2.

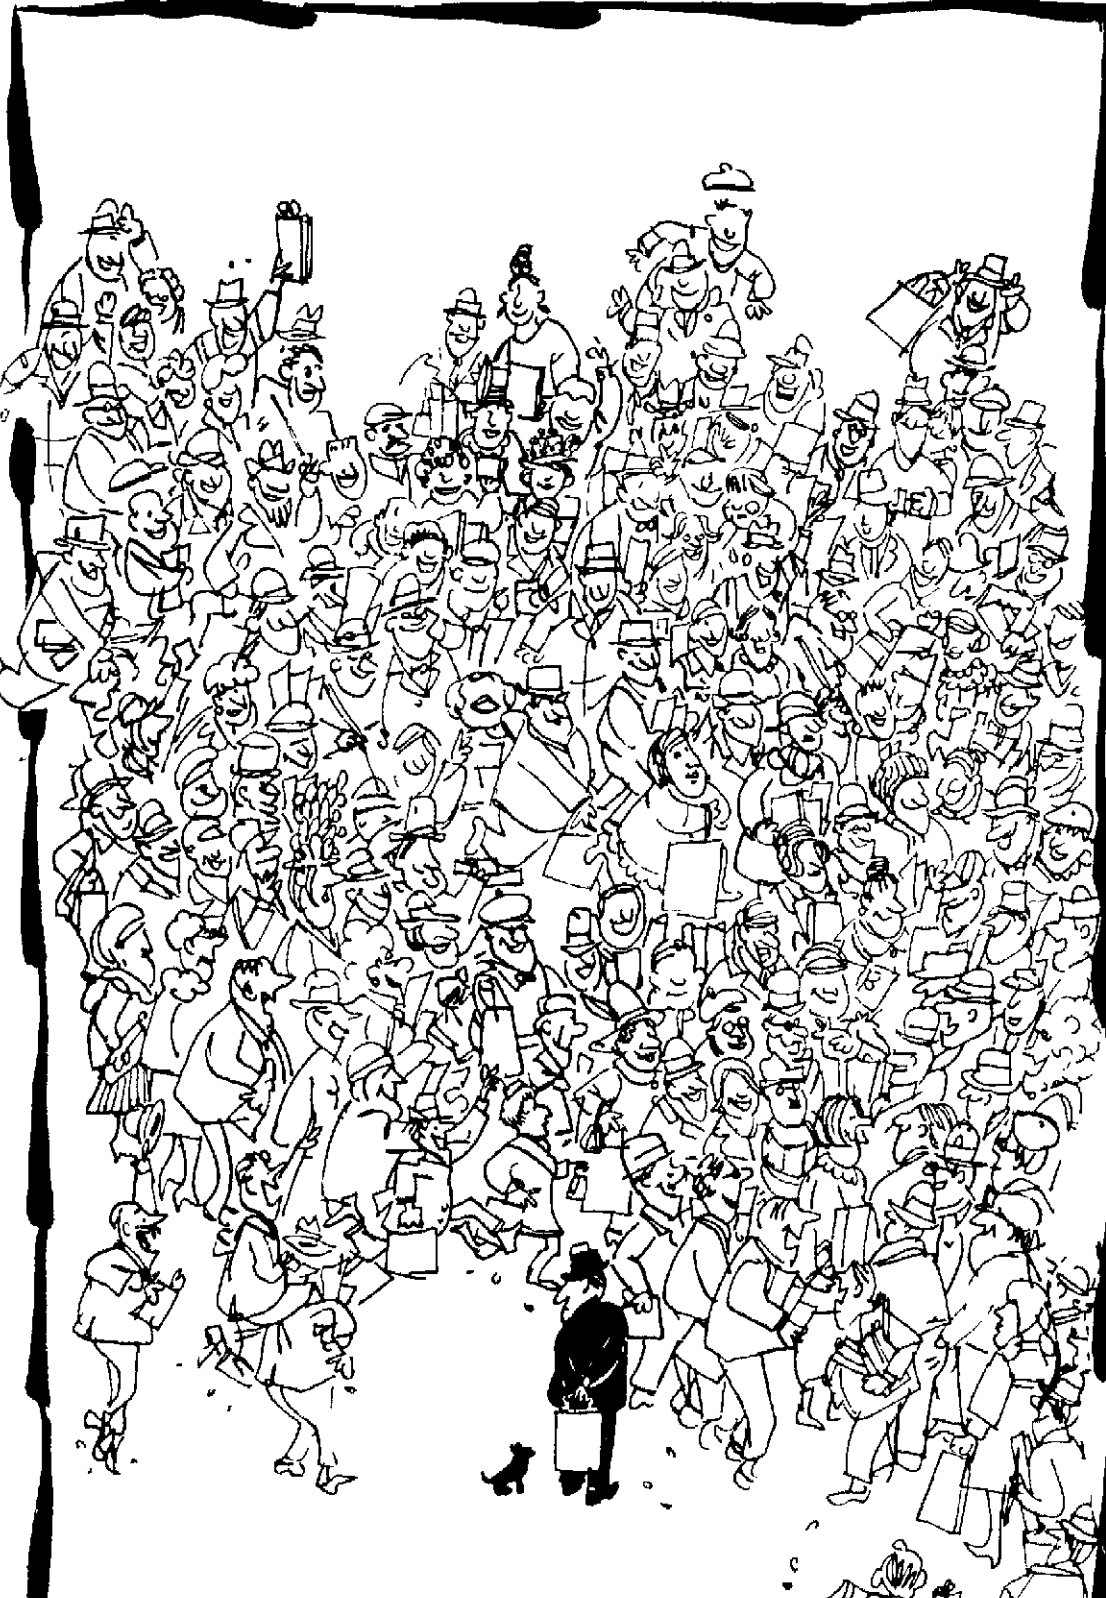

Roger Latham, outdoors editor of the Pittsburgh Press, will be master of ceremonies at the banquet. Members of the Outdoors Recreation Resources Review Commission will be honored at the banquet.

Featured speaker on May 3 will be Joseph W. Barr Jr., secretary of the Department of Community Affairs. The opening session of the conference will have Edmund N. Bacon, executive director of the Philadelphia Planning Commission, as the featured speaker.

The conference will bring together professionals in park and recreation work from every corner of the state. The conference will be held in the Harrisburg Holiday Inn Town.

Penelec Hikers

About 700 members of the National Campers and Hikers Association in Western Pennsylvania will take to the woods Saturday to plant 13,000 evergreen seedlings on two former strip mining areas. The program is sponsored by Penelec. The areas covered are in the Prince Gallitzin State Park area.

Up for discussion is the new legislation dealing with sanitation facilities which will affect all areas of the county.

Cockfight Fans

Cockfight fans are a little unusual. At Saturday night's raid, one of them asked an area reporter how the confiscated birds are destroyed by the Humane Society in Erie. He said he'd hate to think they had their heads chopped off—that would be cruel. He had apparently forgotten the cocks frequently get flayed to death in the ring by the razor-sharp spurs attached to the legs of the fighter.

Cambridge Man Killed By Pickup Truck

A Cambridge Springs man was killed instantly Monday when the pickup truck he was driving on Route 85 rolled over his body.

Pronounced dead at the scene, four and a half miles south of Cambridge Springs, was Edward C. Humes, 34, RD 1. Humes died of a crushed chest, fractured skull and punctured lungs, according to Crawford County Coroner J. C. Bowman. State police said Humes was traveling south at 8:45 p.m. Monday when he lost control of the three-quarter ton pickup truck he was driving.

The truck skidded across the road and overturned several times before coming to a stop. The victim's body was thrown partially through the front windshield when the truck rolled over, pinning his body under the roof.

THOSE POPULAR PANELISTS and their discussion which throws an interesting light on their varied experiences as members of different ethnic, and-or religious groups in this country, may be heard again tonight at 8 o'clock in the Alice Wetmore room of the YWCA. Mrs. Donald Spencer, the regular moderator of the panel called "American Women" is unable to be present this time, but taking her place will be Mrs. Robert Whitehill. The other members of the panel remain the same: Mrs. Henry LeMour, Miss Daphne Chase, Mrs. Bert Levinson, Mrs. James Potter. There are many who have heard this excellent panel before and would like to again, now is your opportunity. All are welcome and it isn't necessary to be a YWCA member to attend.

AT LAST A WOMAN COOK ACHIEVES THE HEIGHTS! It seems a paradox that while mothers for thousands of years have reigned supreme in the kitchens of the world, few of them have attained the heights of recognition accorded to men. But at last it seems we may reach—One of us has attained it already, she is Fernande Allard, who at 42 is queen of the kitchen at "Chez Allard," a family restaurant on the Left Bank of Paris. Chosen as "Premiere Cuisiniere" by a panel of six French food editors—the honor is so rare that there is no feminine form for the word "chef" in French, so that's how they got around that—Madame Allard credits her mother-in-law with teaching her how to cook and then turning the family kitchen over to her. Monsieur Allard, who manages the successful family restaurant, is quoted as saying somewhat less than enthusiastically, "I thought, that women's cooking is 'simpler, more traditional' than that of men. Anyhow, Women of the World, the message is clear, a breakthrough has been made, our place in the sun is finally within reach!"

JACKSON VALLEY WOMEN GOLFERS will have their annual banquet on Thursday, April 27th at the Jackson Valley Country Club. The evening will begin with a social hour from 6 to 7:30 when dinner will be served. The menu choice will be either stuffed pork chops or Swiss steak; tickets are $3.20 per person. All reservations must be in no later than Monday, April 24th. Call Mrs. Bruce Jones at 723-9235.

MINIATURES: Diamond Grange is to have a rummage sale beginning tomorrow, April 20th, and continuing through Friday and Saturday in the rooms just East of the Kuhre Meat Market. For rummage pickup call Mrs. Henry Wyman at 723-3015, or Mrs. Gail Nelson at 723-5259.

Ann Landers

Answers Your Problems

DEAR ANN LANDERS: Next door to us lives a divorced woman with her 16-year-old son. The problem is hers, but I'd like to do something about it if you say I should. My wife says, "Stay out of it."

The boy started to wear his hair very long about six months ago. Last week I was shocked to see that his hair had been dyed from a dark brown to a golden blonde. Also, he must have had a permanent because it was very wavy. This morning the boy was sitting on the front porch and seemed to be wearing a dress. I couldn't believe my eyes so I walked over to talk to him and, sure enough, it was a blue cotton jumper with lace on the pockets.

He said nothing about his outfit and neither did I. Don't you agree that I should report this to the authorities? Please advise. —NOT SURE

DEAR NOT: I can't imagine to what "authorities" you are considering making a report, but I suggest you drop the matter because there is no law against a boy wearing whatever he wants to on his own front porch—or anywhere else, provided he doesn't create a public nuisance. I don't know if the lad is homosexual or a transvestite and neither do you. So take your wife's advice and mind your own business, unless he asks for help one day, in which case I hope you will suggest counseling.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I was very happy to see the sound advice you gave to the woman who signed herself "Need A Boost." She wanted to know if it was all right to take pep pills that had transformed her cleaning lady from a dragged-out slow poke to a veritable ball of fire.

My sister worked full time as a waitress while raising four active children. She did all her own housework and laundry and even kept up the yard. I asked her many times how she managed to do so much and she said, "Pep pills. I couldn't get through the day without them." I pleaded with her to take it easy. I begged her to get help in the house (her husband could well afford it), but she said: "No, every time we don't have to pay out is money we can spend on our children."

The children are now grown and on their own. My sister is in a mental hospital. She is only 58 years old but she looks 80. She weighs less than 100 pounds and doesn't recognize any of us when we come to visit her.

The first question the doctor asked when she collapsed was, "Has she been taking any pills that you know of?"

My sister, unfortunately, acquired the pills from a "friend", without the knowledge of her physician.

Please print this story for the benefit of others for whom it may not be too late. Thank you. — CUMBERLAND, MARYLAND

DEAR C.M.: Here's your letter and my thanks for the personal documentation. I repeat: No medication of any kind should be taken without the approval of a physician. A pill that saved someone's life could END yours.

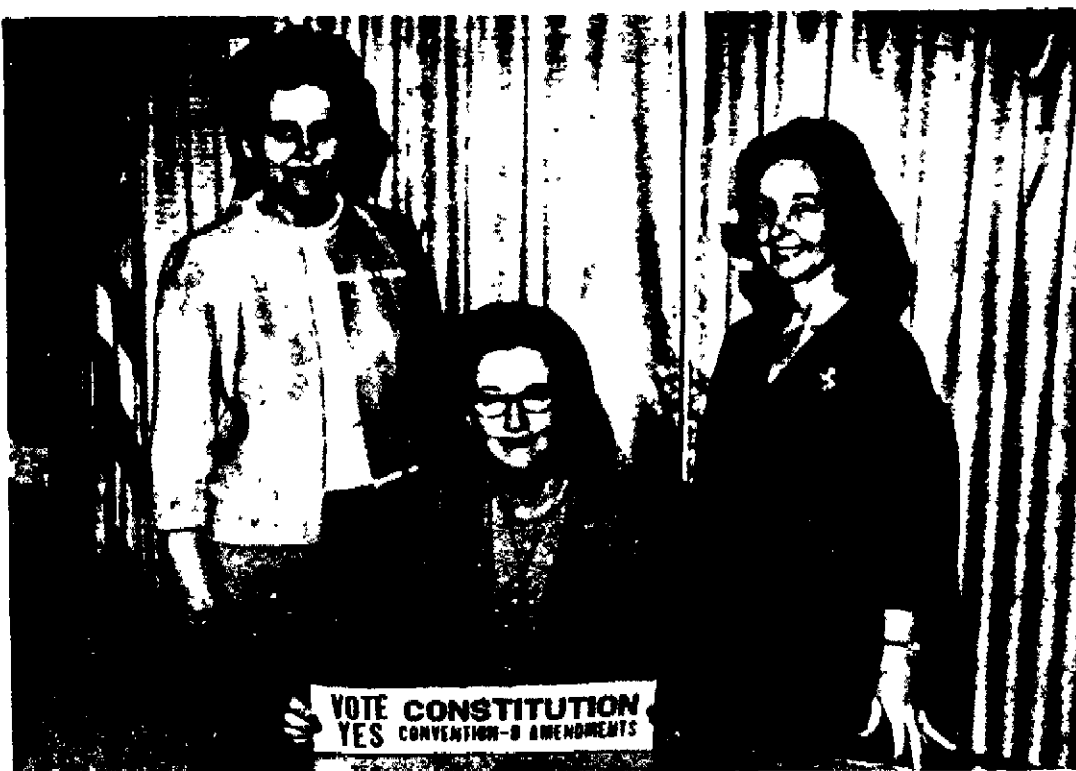

If you have trouble getting along with your parents...If you can't get them to let you live your own life, send for Ann Landers' booklet, "Bugged By Parents? How to Get More Freedom." Send 50 cents in coin with your request and a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Ann Landers will be glad to help you with your problems. Send them to her in care of this newspaper enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Annual Meeting Held By LWV Tuesday, Preceded By Luncheon

A "Study of Area Development" was adopted as the local program for the coming year by the League of Women Voters of the Warren area at their annual meeting yesterday. Members also adopted as this year's local continuing responsibility the "Support of Adequate Methods of Levying and Collecting Local Taxes." Mrs. R. Pierson Eaton, retiring president of the local League, presided at the luncheon meeting, which was held at the Blue Manor Restaurant.

The nominating committee, with Mrs. Marshall Morrow as chairman, presented the slate of officers and directors to serve for the next two years. Mrs. T. K. Stratton was elected president, Mrs. James Potter, first vice-president and Mrs. Nels H. Larson, secretary. Directors elected for two-year terms are: Mrs. Eaton, Mrs. Theodore Prodromou and Mrs. Bertram Messerly. The nominating committee for 1967-68 will be: Mrs. Ralph Sires, chairman, Mrs. Margaret Wright and Mrs. David Smith.

Present officers and directors with terms expiring in April, 1968, are: Mrs. Harry Segel, second vice-president; Mrs. C. P. Spridon, treasurer; Mrs. Lee M. Schaeffer; Mrs. Donald Davis and Mrs. Joseph Lytle, directors.

Mrs. Walter Bergler, budget chairman, submitted the 1967-68 budget for approval. Also serving as chairman of the "Vote Yes All The Way" campaign in Warren, Mrs. Bergler stressed to the members the importance of telling friends and neighbors about the campaign and urging voters to vote yes nine times in the May 16 primary. The nine yes votes will help to insure the modernizing of Pennsylvania's Constitution by passing the eight amendments and the Constitution Convention question on the primary ballot.

In bringing the meeting to a close, the retiring president, Mrs. Eaton, expressed appreciation received in her two years of office, and thanked the membership for remembering her with a lovely corsage of pink rosebuds for the occasion. She then introduced the newly elected president, Mrs. Kenneth Stratton.

In her brief remarks as the new president, Mrs. Stratton expressed confidence in the continuing assistance of the members of the League of Women Voters and their willingness to help in all ways possible.

A New You by Emily Wilkens

In The Mail Bag

DEAR EMILY WILKENS:

HAIRPIECE HINT

I've been wearing a hairpiece daily to give me extra height. Lately I've noticed that my hair has a distinct odor a day or two after washing. Could the hairpiece have anything to do with it?

Georgia C.

Very definitely. Hair covered by a hairpiece needs more frequent cleansing (and airing) than usual. The hairpiece acts as a hat and does cause hair odors to develop more rapidly.

STOP REMOVAL

Whenever I'm out with a date in a restaurant, I always contrive to spill something on my dress. This nervous habit is costly as well as careless. Do you know of any "on-the-spot" ways to mop up spills and keep them from "setting"?

Teddi D.

Sponge spots immediately with club soda. You might tote along a special packet for quick-cleaning or a lipstick size spot removal spray that works! Thus "armed" you'll probably never spill a thing!

RADIANT RINSE

We love to experiment with rinses. Our hair is (respectively) reddish blonde and golden blonde. Do you know of a natural rinse we could try?

Sara L. and Nancy G.

Camomile tea adds radiant highlights to all blonde-toned hair. Brew according to directions on the package and dilute by half with water. Use as a final rinse and you'll be delighted with the results.

HANDS OFF!

After saving up for years, I finally bought a fur coat. I showed it off at every opportunity and my friends were constantly patting and stroking it. (I'm afraid I did, too.)

As I was hanging it up the other day, I noticed that it suddenly looked almost worn out. The fur was flat and lifeless. Could all that handling have caused the "damage"?

Tessie F.

It certainly could. If fur is stroked too much, the friction causes the guard hairs, which give fur its character and life, to become "singled off." Issue a strict "hands off" policy immediately and observe the "don't touch rule" forever more!

PERK UP POLISH

I give myself a careful, once-a-week manicure, but my polish seems to chip after the second day and looks awful. I don't have time to give myself a complete manicure every other day. How can I hold chipping to a minimum?

Mrs. Allison L. La Crosse, Wis.

Every day or two, apply a thin layer of top coat to seal in the color and prevent chipping.

Be wary of using your nails as tools. Let your fingertips bear the brunt of such tasks as opening pocketbooks, compacts, bobbypins.

Do wear rubber gloves whenever your hands must be immersed in water, and when doing household chores.

Emily Wilkens welcomes letters, but cannot undertake to answer each one. She will use questions in her column of general interest. Address your letters to Emily Wilkens, c/o this newspaper.

Zonta Elects New Officers For 1967-1968

Election of officers was held at the luncheon and business meeting of Zonta Club at the Blue Manor recently. The following will serve for the 1967-68 term: President, Mrs. Hazel Lewis; vice president, Mrs. Virginia Hohman; treasurer, Mrs. Mary Gordon; secretary, Mrs. Edith Morley. The officers will be formally installed at the next dinner meeting on April 7.

Presiding at the meeting was Mrs. Hazel Lewis, president, who appointed Miss Marion Sleeman and Mrs. Mary Dahl as auditors to audit the books for the preceding year. It was reported that all contributions have been received for the March of Dimes, and a check will be presented to the foundation in the very near future. The unit has received special recognition in Zontian magazine for this work.

Miss Jean Steele, scholarship chairman, reported that several applications have been received for the scholarship. Applicants will be interviewed on May 7. Members were urged to attend the Spring Workshop in Toronto on April 29, and in Pittsburgh, May 13. A chartered bus will be going to Pittsburgh and everyone is urged to make reservations as soon as possible.

Mrs. Helen Israel will have the program for the coming dinner meeting.

Sugar cookies look pretty with a dot of red currant jelly in the center. Add the jelly garnish just before serving.

BPW Federation Sponsoring 2nd 'Youthpower Conference'

The Pennsylvania Federation of Business and Professional Women's Clubs, Inc., are sponsoring their second annual "Youth power Conference" in Harrisburg on April 21 and 22, at the Holiday Inn.

Miss Betty Hollis of Uniontown, first vice president of the federation is conference chairman. According to Miss Hollis, the student registration at the conference is approximately 250. Attending from the Warren B.P.W. Club is Ruth Marie Ferrier, a Warren Area High School Senior, member of the Stenographers Club, and the National Honor Society. She will be accompanied by Miss Evelyn Boyd, a member of B.P.W., who will be her advisor.

The conference theme is "Preparation Of Youth For Our Free Enterprise System." Several topics, which will be discussed by both participating students and adults, are "Our Modern Business Community," moderator Edgar Hilgendorf of the Pa. State Chamber of Commerce; "What Is Our Free Enterprise System And How It Works," by Glenn A. Oman, chairman of the board, president and chief executive officer of International Textbooks Company; "Changing Trends In The World Of Work," by Dr. Edwin L. Herr, bureau director, Guidance Service, Department of Public Instruction; and "Youth Goals And Aspirations," by Glenn Weber, state president, Future Farmers of America.

Kyenote addresses will cover

The Halls Of Ivy

The School of Nursing at Woman's Medical College of Pennsylvania this Saturday, April 22, will entertain parents at the Annual Parents Day program. One of the students is Lucinda (Cindy) A. Buerkle, a Junior, and daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Gilbert W. Buerkle, of Star Route, Irvine.

For Parents Day, Miss Elma Abbe, president of the Student Council, will preside over an assembly in the College auditorium; Dr. Glen R. Leymaster, president and dean of the college, will greet parents; Mrs. Drucilla-Marie Gleaves, medical-surgical clinical coordinator, is faculty chairman for Parents Day, and advisor to the Junior class.

The events of the day will close with a tea in Ann Preston Hall, which houses the school and dormitory.

Jeanne Baker, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Leo Baker of 320 Prospect street, and a freshman at Mercyhurst College, Erie, majoring in History, has been elected treasurer of the Student Government Association at school.

This past weekend all the students entertained their fathers at "Fathers' Weekend." On Saturday night there was a dinner, and the next morning they attended Mass together in the chapel and received Communion; a brunch was served afterwards. On Sunday afternoon the fathers were taken by their daughters on a tour of the newest of buildings at Mercyhurst, the Science and Art Building.

Joseph E. Manno, son of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Manno, 916

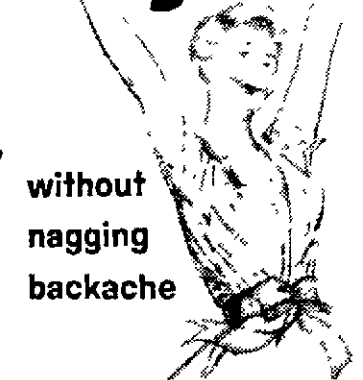

Fourth avenue, has recently returned from Atlanta, Georgia, where he presented a research paper at the Sixth Annual Meeting of the Society of Toxicology. Mr. Manno will receive the Master of Science degree at Duquesne University, Pittsburgh, this June.

He has been granted a graduate fellowship for study toward a Doctor of Philosophy degree in Toxicology at Indiana University Medical Center, Indianapolis, Indiana.

Diane M. Howe, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James W. Howe of 13 Woodcrest drive, Clarendon, was recently initiated into Beta Beta Beta, the national biology honorary. Miss Howe, a sophomore at Westminster College in New Wilmington, Pennsylvania, is majoring in Biology. She is a member of Westminster's YWCA cabinet and the Zeta Tau Alpha sorority.

John Pierson has been named to the Dean's List for the winter term at Pennsylvania State University. John is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Karl Pierson of 504 Conevange avenue.

Charles Gadsbys Celebrate Golden Wedding Anniversary

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Gadsby observed their golden wedding anniversary on Sunday, April 16, at the Starbrick Fire Hall. Given by their children, Mrs. William (Geraldine) Short, Mrs. Boyd (Virginia) Daugherty, Mrs. Mary Silvis, Mrs. Richard (Lois) Johnson and Ronald Gadsby, all of Warren, Mrs. Clarence (Lucille) Jenkins of Jackson Center, Pennsylvania, and seventeen grandchildren, two great-grandchildren. They received gifts, flowers and many cards, and three hundred attended the anniversary celebration coming from Ohio, Transfer, Sandy Lake, Erie, Meadville, Oil City, East Brady, Grove City, Harrisville, Polk, Mercer, Sharon, Clarendon, Kane, Franklin and Warren.

National Library Week Is Observed By Adventists

"Good food for the mind is just as important as good food for the body, and good books make good 'mind food,'" That "short sermon" on the value of good books was carried from church services at Warren Seventh-day Adventist Church, 614 Fourth street, Saturday, April 15, as members marked the beginning of National Library Week, April 18-22.

Pastor Richard Meler gave the counsel to his congregation at 9:30 a.m. worship services Saturday morning as part of the local church's recognition of the important, nationally observed week dedicated to focusing attention on the value of good books.

"The output of far too many publishing houses in America is contributing to weakened minds," said Pastor Meler in announcing the special recognition at his church. "Against this rising tide of mind-weakening literature it is heartening that a time such as National Library Week can be set aside to promote the use of good books to build good minds."

As part of the local church's attempt to cooperate with the aims of National Library Week, Pastor Meler said four books entitled, Good News for You, God Speaks to Modern Man, The Seventh Day, and Drama of the Ages will be presented to the Warren public library during the special week.

"Although our contribution may not be great it will, nonetheless, signify our belief that good books do, indeed, build good minds," the minister said.

Roll cooked asparagus stalks in this rectangles of cooked ham; wrap in foil and warm in a moderate oven. Serve the asparagus-ham rolls on buttered toast with a piping-hot tangy cheese sauce. Garnish with slices of ripe-red tomato.

Appearing At Local Church

LENNART SANDBERGH

The First Church of God on Madison avenue, tomorrow evening at 7:30 will present Lennart Sandbergh, musician, and native of Sweden. An ordained minister, he spent sixteen years as a pastor with The Salvation Army, followed by four years of musical tours sponsored by the Swedish government. Mr. Sandbergh's travels have taken him to England, Norway, Denmark, Finland, Canada, Cuba and the Bahamas. In the United States he and Ake Forsberg formed the now renowned Northlanders of Sweden. They have performed in camps, churches and at conferences all over the country.

The musical minister, now on his own, has the distinction of being the country's only touring lute player. All are invited to hear him tomorrow night.

And old-fashioned rice is a good investment because it usually lasts a lifetime. It's excellent for ricing hard-cooked eggs and boiled or baked potatoes.

If you are using round steak for Beef Stroganoff, make sure that you simmer that beef until it is extremely tender. When Stroganoff is made from very tender beefsteak that is usually broiled, quick cooking is the rule.

GLORIA JEAN SENNETT

Mr. and Mrs. George Sennett, 308 Steuben street, Herkimer, New York, announce the engagement of their daughter, Gloria Jean, to Mr. C. Wayne Kipple, son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Kipple, Sugar Grove. Miss Sennett, a graduate of Herkimer Senior High School, attended Monroe Community College, Rochester, New York, and is presently employed at Blue Cross - Blue Shield in Rochester, New York, where she works for the government on the Medicare Program. Mr. Kipple, a graduate of Eisenhower High School, received his A.A.S. degree at Rochester Institute of Technology, Rochester, New York, and will graduate with his B.S. degree from the School of Retailing at R.I.T. in August. No date has been set for the wedding.

Hints From Heloise

Disposals And Salt

Dear Gals: When you wash your hair in the kitchen sink and have lots of suds that won't go down the drain properly — have you ever thought of turning on your disposal? Just watch those suds disappear! (If you've got long hair, for heaven's sake, don't leave THAT in.)

This is also an excellent idea when washing out clothing and you end up with a basin full of foam. What have you got to lose except a flip of that disposal?

And for those of you who don't have disposals—remember the kitchen salt shaker. Pick it up and shake away on top of the suds, and they deflate like a flat tire.

Also works in overflowed washing machines and dishwashers. Ever had that happen? Ugh!

Heloise

DEAR HELOISE

When my baby was small, his vitamin drops often ran out of his mouth before he figured out how to swallow them.

I discovered that if I put his pacifier in his mouth immediately after he took his drops he would suck and naturally swallow all his vitamins.

Young Mom

But that saved lots of stained clothes!

Heloise

DEAR HELOISE

For six years I tried to keep the paper in my kitchen drawers from sliding.

I wrapped a piece of cellophane tape around a pencil with the sticky side out. Then removed the little roll of tape from the pencil and used one under each corner of the paper to hold the paper to the drawer.

It works fine.

DEAR HELOISE

To keep my two children from fighting over who got the biggest piece of cake, I let one make the cut and the other take first choice.

I have even seen them get the ruler out to be sure the

DEAR HELOISE

To keep a belt buckle from sliding up and down in front, I sew a snap on the belt and the waistline near either side of the buckle.

Opening lead Five of ♠
An unorthodox, and yet logically conceived defensive campaign by East earned an upset of South's four heart contract.

West opened the five of spades, the jack was played from dummy and East's king won the trick. An examination of the North hand made it apparent that, aside from the ace of trumps, the defense must look to the diamond suit to score any additional tricks.

East realized that in order to defeat the contract, he would have to find his partner with the ace of diamonds, and a prompt shift to that suit was clearly indicated. If declarer had two diamonds, the cashing of four tricks would, of course, become routine. If South had a singleton diamond, however, hope need not necessarily be abandoned, for pressure can be applied against his trump holding provided that East defends in a somewhat unorthodox manner.

At trick two, East shifted to the king of diamonds and when this held the trick, he continued with a small diamond. Declarer ruffed and led a trump. East was in with the ace, and another round of diamonds reduced South to two hearts, which was one less than his opponent held. There was no way to prevent East from ultimately scoring the setting trick with his long trump.

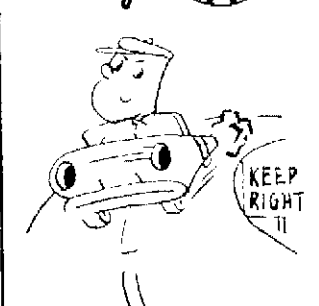

Observe that, if East makes the normal return of his fourth best diamond at trick two, West is in with the ace, and on the return, dummy's jack will force out the king as declarer ruffs. The queen of diamonds now becomes a stopper and enables South to retain control of the hand. When the ace of hearts is driven out, East is unable to exert any further pressure against his opponent's trump holding, and South can draw all of East's hearts when he regains the lead.

Your Horoscope

By Frances Drake

Look in the section in which your birthday comes and find what your outlook is, according to the stars.
FOR WEDNESDAY, APRIL 19, 1967
ARIES (March 21 to April 20) — Present planetary influences suggest that you keep standards and motivations on a high level, check impulses and avoid hasty action. Emphasize your innate keenness and fine sense of perception.
TAURUS (April 21 to May 21) — An excellent day in which to demonstrate your ingenuity and progressiveness. Put your best efforts into all endeavors, but do not expect immediate returns.
GEMINI (May 22 to June 21) — Your ability to weather "stormy" periods will be a great help now. You may run into some opposition, some unexpected situations, but you should enjoy the challenge — and meet it ably!
CANCER (June 22 to July 23) — You could do well now if you would make use of some of your latent talents and maintain a flexible attitude when faced with possible changes in pre-planned activities. Emphasize your innate dignity. It will impress others.
LEO (July 24 to August 23) — You may not be able to accomplish ALL that you schedule, but with an optimistic attitude and sincere endeavor you can, nevertheless, give a distinguished performance.
VIRGO (August 24 to September 23) — A better day than you may think at first. Especially favored: The solution of difficult problems, organizational matters and the cancellation of opposing forces.
LIBRA (September 24 to October 23) — Some procedures may have to be changed but, in general, you will attain the results you work for. Your keen wit could attract new friends.

SCORPIO (October 24 to November 22) — Good planning, acquainting yourself with unfamiliar details and learning how to facilitate matters generally will keep the day in line and you at the top of the heap.
SAGITTARIUS (November 23 to December 21) — Place obligations before desires, but do make some time for recreation and relaxation. Understanding and cooperation with others will be your key to success now.
CAPRICORN (December 22 to January 20) — Here is a spot for you to outpoint those who are careless or do not reckon with contingencies—which the true Capricorn usually does. In your climb upward, however, give others a boost toward their objectives.
AQUARIUS (January 21 to February 19) — A day for astute thinking and equally wise follow-up. Try something different, if only as a hobby. "Little things" could bring you great happiness now.
PISCES (February 20 to March 20) — As with Aquarius, you, too, could profit through some new endeavor. Better-than-usual advantages.

YOU BORN TODAY have many talents and the verve to lead a full, interesting, action-filled life. You are endowed with an eager, facile mind, but you must be interested in what you are doing or you drop it. This is not so wise since many things could turn out to be more fruitful than you expect. You have a great love of beauty, are delighted with higher learning, enjoy travel and meeting interesting people. No matter what your occupation, you can handle a diverting—and possibly remunerative — hobby, and it would probably be along artistic lines.

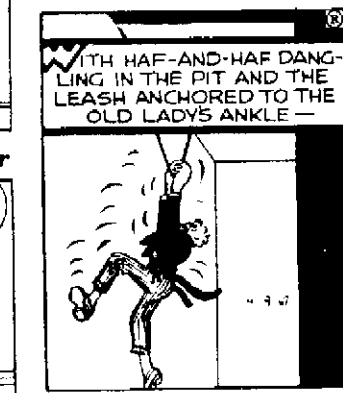

How to Keep Well

By Dr. T. R. Van Dellen

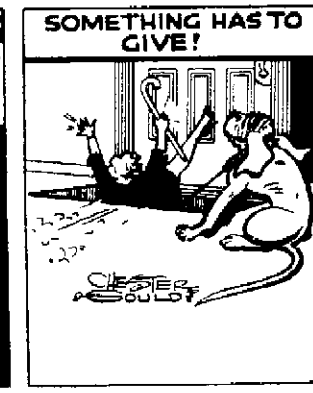

RISK FACTORS IN STROKE
Hypertension increases the risk of a stroke. The height of the blood pressure is not so important as whether tension has encouraged the brain arteries to harden.
A normal artery can withstand considerable pressure but a narrowed and thickened vessel is more susceptible to rupture or obstruction by a clot.
Approximately 60 per cent of stroke victims have hypertension. Seventeen per cent have diabetes which also predisposes them to arteriosclerosis. Many of these individuals also have hardening of the coronary vessels making them vulnerable to heart attack.
High blood pressure also accelerates this condition. In this regard it is one of the high risk factors in the development of a heart attack (coronary thrombosis). Statistics show that the chance of developing coronary disease is more than twice as high when hypertension exists. The risk increases when the cholesterol is elevated or the individual is obese or smokes.
Have the blood pressure taken periodically and be treated when it is elevated. Many medicines lower the tension and help to minimize the risk of a stroke or heart attack. The sooner this is done the better because there is a point of no return after the pressure is elevated for many years. At this stage, it makes no difference whether or not the pressure is reduced. Remember, it is not the height of the blood pressure that counts, but what the tension is doing to you.
Dr. Van Dellen will answer questions on medical topics if stamped, self-addressed envelope accompanies request.
TOMORROW: Leisureitis.

REACTS TO APPLE CRUNCHER
Mrs. M.F. writes: I get goose pimples when I hear someone crunching apples. Since my husband eats at least three apples every evening, it is important for me to overcome this sensation. Have you any suggestions?
REPLY
Perhaps your husband can supply the answer. After all, a wife's comfort is more important than a few apples. Tell him that three may keep his wife away. And don't let him talk you into wearing ear plugs.
KIDNEY STONES
B.L.N. writes: I suffer from kidney stones occasionally and, as you know, passing them is an ordeal. Is it safe for me to drink a lot of lemonade, which is my favorite beverage?
REPLY
It may be, but the answer depends upon the chemical composition of stones your kidneys manufacture. In any case, plenty of fluids will be helpful.
HARDENED ARTERIES
Mrs. V.A.N. writes: Can hardening of the arteries be determined with the fingertips by taking the pulse?
REPLY
Yes, but this method is not too reliable. For example, it offers no clue as to the amount of blood flowing thru the artery, an important consideration in arteriosclerosis.

Ida Larson buys first stamp

Officer of Grange Buys First Stamp

By MRS. PAUL LINDELL

Ida Grace Larson, master of Ackley Grange, has purchased the first commemorative Grange stamp sold, from the Russell Post Office, from Assistant Post Master, James Pascarella.

This is National Grange Week, and comes midway in the centennial year of the country's oldest farm organization. In 1867 Oliver H. Kelley conceived of the Grange as a means for aggrieved farmers to collectively strive for remedial action and formed a community service organization. Today the Grange has more than 620,000 members from 7,000 local Granges.

Although basically interested in fostering the welfare of the farmer and farm oriented people, the Grange has always integrated its program into a community-wide concept that included civic, youth and women's activities.

With 100 years of non-partisan, national legislative accomplishments behind it, the National Grange today during National Grange Week is moving swiftly into its second century with new legislative goals for rural America and the entire country.

It is sometimes forgotten that most of the major laws passed in this country that affect farmers and rural Americans were either sponsored or supported by the Grange, as were broader, social and economic measures affecting all Americans. For instance:

The Grange was the bulwark in achieving legislation that provided for interstate highway programs. Initiated legislation which removed the federal tax on fuel for "On the farm" use, saving farmers $100 million annually. Was solely responsible for the creation of Rural Free Delivery and the Parcel Post System.

Championed the Soil Conservation Service, Farmers Home Administration, Extension Service, Vocational Agriculture Program and the CROP Insurance, Upstream Water Shed, School Lunch and milk, Great Plains, Rural Area Development, Food for Peace program — all of which now are taken for granted.

The list is endless, but perhaps the greatest contribution of the Grange to the legislative backbone of this country was the drafting of the Granger Laws. These laws formed the basis of our concept of the relationship between business and government.

Ackley Grange will observe National Grange Week with an open meeting Friday evening with a Visitation program put on by Warren Grange members.

Refreshments will be served following the program. All Grangers are invited. Members are reminded that reservations for the Annual Legislative dinner to be held at Mountain Grange in Tidouate on April 29, must be in by Friday, to Miss Larson.

John Scott, Master of Pa. State Grange, will be the speaker and he will speak on the new legislations coming up.

Youngsville Councilmen Meet

By Peggy and Lew Crippen
Youngsville borough council Monday evening authorized Solicitor William Hill Jr. to prepare recommended amendments to the subdivision ordinance for advertising and a public hearing.

The changes delay the black-topping of streets and the installation of sidewalks in new subdivisions and have the effect of transferring the financial responsibility for the improvements from the subdivision to the lot owner.

The council proposal will require the subdivider to guarantee "that the necessary grading, street base course, moni-ments, fire hydrants, water mains, drainage and sanitary sewer improvements shall be installed by the subdivider." The proposal continues, "It shall further be agreed by inclusion in the deeds with the sale of each lot within the subdivision of the restrictions on building permits and the requirements of final improvements to streets and sidewalks by the individual property owner before acceptance by the Borough."

As soon as the amendments are prepared by Solicitor Hill, council will set a public hearing date when the zoning amendments will be fully discussed.

Brokenstraw Township supervisors requested Youngsville council to cooperate with them in the widening and graveling of Thatchers street the main access road to the Brokenstraw Valley swimming pool. The supervisors proposed to provide all the equipment, labor and materials and for the two adjacent political subdivisions to share the costs equally. In addition, Youngsville will pay for the installation of a sluice and Brokenstraw township will assume all maintenance costs for the street. Council tentatively agreed with the suggested terms for an agreement but requested the supervisors to provide an estimate of the total costs.

Two bids were opened for a 750 g.p.m., gasoline-electric pump to provide emergency water department service. Presently, if the electrical power is interrupted no water is pumped to the reservoirs and a prolonged fire might endanger the stored water supply. One bid was for nearly $12,000 with the pump fully installed, the other was for approximately $8,500 with no electrical connections included. Council will now check the electrical costs to determine which bid is lower.

The bid of Preston, of Brookville, was accepted for installing sewer and water lines under the new four-lane Route 6 Youngsville bypass. Preston, the only bidder, requested $10,824.50 for the entire job.

Councilman Seekings requested borough employees to give the preparation and oiling of dirt streets the highest Spring priority.

Dick Pearce announces that all Youngsville Old Timers who have been contacted for the softball team should be sure and listen to the Youngsville News on Wednesday.

St. Francis Guild will meet at 8 p.m., today, with Sue Reagle and Allison Comfort, two American Field Service participants, as speakers. Miss Reagle, a YHS senior, spent last summer in Germany. Miss Comfort, of New Zealand, is spending this school year in Youngsville.

Lander Area News Notes

By MRS. PAUL LINDELL
Girl Scout Troop 465 of Lander has 33 girls enrolled and are divided into five patrols. The patrols and their leaders are: Lightning patrol, adult leader, Mrs. Robert Switzer, Lorraine Thompson, patrol leader; Heart Patrol, Mrs. Richard Anderson, Gail Resli; Crosses, Mrs. Norman Shaffer, Sue Capron; Arrows, Mrs. Belmer Hitchcock, Karen Bloomgren; Stars, Mrs. Robert Resh, Marcia Stawaski.

The Troop is sponsored by the Lander PTA and meet on Tuesdays during the lunch hour at school.

Wednesday evening they met at the Parish house for a program and presentation of pins.

The meeting opened with singing, "America" and the Pledge to the Flag. Three large candles were placed on a table to represent the three parts of the Girl Scout Promise. As Trudy Abbott told the meaning of the promise, Patty Lindell lighted the candles. Each Scout (by Patrols) was presented her pin, Troop Crest and handshake by her leader. Ten girls lit the ten candles, which flanked the large ones representing the Promise, these representing ten laws. The adult leaders were presented their pins by the Patrol leaders. Taps and Grace were sung and the Hearts Patrol served refreshments toward a badge requirement and the Star Patrol gave a choral reading also for a requirement.

Several girls who were not present will be given their pins at their next meeting.

THE PLACE TO GO

Whether on vacation or just out for the day, what a delightful spot to picnic on the scenic shores of the St. Lawrence River in the shadow of the 1000 Islands Bridge linking New York State and Ontario, Canada.

EN ROUTE TO EXPO 67

Stop by 1000 Islands

Visitors to Canada's Expo 67 can round out a perfect vacation by stopping off at the 1000 Islands on their way to or from this great World's Fair.

Only a three-hour drive (160 miles) to Montreal from the Canadian end of the 1000 Islands Bridge via Highways 401 and 2, the 1000 Islands area is on the main route for travelers to Expo 67 from almost any direction.

From the middle or far west, or south in the United States, the New York Thruway to Syracuse and Interstate 81 offer a scenic drive directly to the 1000 Islands Bridge, the most picturesque crossing of any over the St. Lawrence River into Canada. On the Canadian side, travelers from Toronto and points west pass right through the 1000 Islands region enroute to Montreal. From New England, traveling by way of the 1000 Islands on the way to or from Expo 67 affords an interesting and pleasure-full circle tour.

One of the charms of the 1000 Islands is its international character. More than two-thirds of these 1800 islands that dot the first 50 miles of the St. Lawrence are in Canadian waters. Thriving resort communities on both the United States and Canadian shores of the river offer every facility for perfect vacation, whether for a day, a week or longer.

Canada is also observing its Centennial this year—the 100th anniversary of its confederation. Kingston, Gananoque and Brockville, principal Canadian communities of the 1000 Islands, have planned interesting and enjoyable programs that include pageants, festivals, boat races, fishing derbies, concerts, exhibitions and numerous other activities. On the U.S. side, Alexandria Bay, Clayton, Cape Vincent and Watertown are also arranging busy schedules of events to assure entertainment and enjoyment for everyone. Of course, there are, in addition, the permanent attractions on both sides of the border. These include fishing and every kind of water sport, golf, historical sites, museums, picnicking and wooded trails for hiking.

Despite the expected increase in the number of visitors in 1967, the 1000 Islands has ample accommodations in every price range from camp and trailer sites to luxury hotels, with a wide variety of motels, cottages and tourist homes in between. There are boats of every type for rent by the hour, day or week—everything from rowboats and small outboards to cabin cruisers and houseboats. Expanded marina facilities assure docking space for craft of every size.

Further information may be obtained by writing to the 1000 Island International Council, Box 428, Alexandria Bay, N.Y. 13607.

Mobil Oil Travelaid Lists Dam

Allegheny National Forest and Chapman State Park get special mention in the new Middle Atlantic States edition of the 1967 Mobil Travel Guide now available at Mobil stations and bookstores throughout the country.

The new guide lists and rates over 3,000 restaurants, hotels and motels for the convenience of anyone traveling by car in Pennsylvania and adjoining 8-state area. The Forest and Park are cited as places visitors should see to get the most out of their travels to this area.

The seven Regional editions of the Mobil Travel Guides list a total of 22,000 establishments throughout the continental United States. They are rated on a one to five-star basis by a staff of experienced, objective Mobil representatives. The listings and ratings are made entirely at the discretion of the Guide's editorial staff, and there is no financial consideration.

This year's Guide is larger than before and contains maps of each State for the first time. The price at Mobil stations and bookstores is $1.95.

appointed by the Governor with the consent of the Senate as the Attorney General and all other cabinet officers are now appointed.

19. Future Governors and Lieutenant Governors will be permitted to serve for two successive terms instead of being limited to one term at a time as under the present Constitution.

20. Provision is made that the Lieutenant Governor shall be chosen jointly with the Governor by the casting by the Governor of a single vote applicable to both offices. Thus, it will not be possible at the same election to have a Governor of one party elected and the Lieutenant Governor of another party.

21. The voting rights of the Lieutenant Governor as President of the Senate are clarified.

22. The Board of Pardons is completely reorganized. The new Board will consist of the Lieutenant Governor as Chairman, the Attorney General and three other members appointed by the Governor to serve for staggered terms of six years. One of the appointed members would be a lawyer, another a penologist, and the third a medical doctor, a psychiatrist or psychologist.

23. As in the case of the Governor and Lieutenant Governor both the Auditor General and the State Treasurer will be permitted to serve two successive terms, but the State Treasurer will not be eligible to the office of Auditor General until four years after the end of his term as State Treasurer. The reason for this is that the Auditor General should not be placed in the position of being required to audit his own accounts as State Treasurer by immediate succession from the position of State Treasurer to that of Auditor General.

24. The residence requirement for voting will be 90 days in all cases. Instead of the present one year for persons coming into the state for the first time, and six weeks for those who formerly were qualified electors or native-born citizens of Pennsylvania and who removed from Pennsylvania and returned.

25. At present two separate sections of the Constitution (Article VIII, Sections 6 and 18) deal with the matter of absentee voting. These sections will be consolidated into one.

26. Overseers of election are abolished. The constitutional provision permitting the Courts of Common Pleas to appoint these officers has become unnecessary in view of the passage of the Watcher's Act of 1963.

27. Because it has no place in the Constitution but belongs in the Penal Code of the Commonwealth, Section 9 of Article VIII is repealed. It pertains to punishment of candidates for public office for bribery, fraud or willful violation of any election law.

28. "In the event a major emergency threatens or is about to threaten the Commonwealth, and if the safety or welfare of the Commonwealth requires prompt amendment of this Constitution", such amendment, if it receives the affirmative votes of two-thirds of the members elected to each House of the Legislature, may be voted upon promptly after it is advertised but such vote may not occur sooner than one month after the adoption of the amendment by both Houses of the Legislature.

We consider this amendment to be of the highest importance in these days of possible atomic warfare. However, the present method of amending the Constitution will be retained for amendments which are not emergency measures. In the opinion of at least two-thirds of the members of each House of the Legislature.

29. The present obsolete Article XVII on railroads and canals will be repealed in its entirety. Today the regulation of railroads, canals and other transportation agencies comes within the jurisdiction of the Federal government or the Public Utility Commission under the state's Public Utility Law. That law covers the state's requirements satisfactorily and the provisions of Article XVII of the Constitution are no longer necessary. In addition there are no longer any canal companies in Pennsylvania.

Jamestown Vacancy To Be Filled

JAMESTOWN — Veteran councilman John B. Carlson is expected to be named tonight as president of the Jamestown City Council to succeed the late Frank R. Franco, who died on April 8.

Carlson, a Democrat, is completing his 14th year as a member of city council.

Still pending is a replacement for Franco, Mayor Fred H. Dunn has indicated that several possibilities have been suggested to him, including the name of Richard Courson of 403 Cole ave., Samuel Colera of 43 Andrews ave., and Dr. William J. Tracy of 101 Forest ave., all Democrats.

Dr. Tracy, a pathologist at WCA Hospital, appears to have the blessings of council as well as Mayor Dunn. He is chairman of the city Smoke Abatement Commission and vice chairman of the city Recreation Commission.

Courson also has served the public as a member of Jamestown Welfare Board, while Colera served on the Industrial Development Commission and is a past president of Jamestown Jaycees.

we care

it's impossible

What is?

Trying to describe the beautiful new packages for our A&P Frozen Baked Foods.
You'll just have to see them to appreciate our problem.

This we can tell you:

Delicious as they look, they taste even more delicious.

What are the products like? Well...

There's an Apple Strudel so tender and flaky,
the most accomplished German baker would be jealous.

There are Devil's Food Cakes you'll say only angels could bake... the taste is that heavenly.

There are All Butter Coffee Cakes and Pound Cake as delicious as their names sound.

We could go on and on. But why tease you any more?

Know what your biggest problem is going to be?

Which one to buy first.

Here's a suggestion.

Buy them all.

FIX IT AHEAD OF GUESTS

The Handsome Ham Loaf

The perfect entree for your next buffet dinner features fork tender ham loaf glazed with luscious sweet cherry sauce. The cherry sauce and ham loaf can be made up well in advance of your guests' arrival and cooked slowly at your leisure. This handsome loaf will also be a family favorite so no need to wait for a dinner party.

To insure a moist smooth ham loaf, use a mixture of ground ham and fresh pork with milk and eggs. Delicate cracker crumbs add texture while a sprinkling of onion and parsley adds tang.

The dazzling canned sweet cherry sauce is drizzled over the loaf during the last hour of baking. For the base of the sauce, cherry syrup from either light or dark sweet cherries simmers with cornstarch and brown sugar until thick. A hint of mustard and vinegar increases the affinity of this elegant sauce for the tender ham. After basting the ham loaf with the sweet cherry sauce, serve the remaining sauce on the side to spoon over each slice.

SWEET CHERRY GLAZED HAM LOAF
1 pound smoked ham

1 pound lean fresh pork
3/4 cup cracker crumbs
2 eggs, slightly beaten
1/2 teaspoon salt
3/4 cup milk
1 tablespoon chopped parsley

Sweet Cherry Sauce
Put ham and pork through food chopper with medium plate. Mix ground meat with cracker crumbs. Add onion, eggs, salt, milk and parsley. Work together until well blended. Shape into loaf to fit 9 x 5 inch loaf pan. Bake at 350 degrees for 1 hour. Baste with Sweet Cherry Sauce and continue to bake an additional 30 minutes. To serve, spoon additional Sweet Cherry Sauce over each slice. Makes 6 to 8 servings.

SWEET CHERRY SAUCE
1 (1 pound) can pitted light or dark sweet cherries
1 tablespoon cornstarch
1/4 teaspoon dry mustard
1/2 cup brown sugar
2 tablespoons cider vinegar
Drain cherries, reserving syrup. Mix cornstarch, mustard and brown sugar in saucepan. Gradually stir in cherry syrup and vinegar. Bring to a boil, stirring constantly. Stir and cook until thickened and clear. Stir in cherries and heat.

USE A LITTLE SORCERY

Pudding Cake Is Witchcraft

Use a touch of sorcery to create this saucy sweet cherry dessert. Delicate cake batter is topped with juicy sweet cherries and flooded with juice to yield the most scrumptious dessert ever.

The sweet cherry juice seeps to the bottom to form a luxuriant sauce, rippling through the light batter. Canned sweet cherries blend into the fluffy cake and all turn topsy-turvy to your family's delight.

It's no magic that canned sweet cherries, either light or dark, guarantee a dessert treat.

Grown in the fertile orchards of the Pacific Northwest, they flourish in the mild climate, and gentle rains. Picked at perfection and packed with most advanced processing methods, they retain all their sugar and sweet goodness.

In desserts, salads, meat accompaniments, and appetizers, canned sweet cherries, add glamour to family menus.

SWEET CHERRY SAUCED CAKE
1 (1 pound) can pitted light

or dark sweet cherries
1 cup sifted flour
1/2 teaspoons baking powder
1/4 teaspoon salt
1/2 cup sugar
1/4 cup shortening

1 egg
1/2 cup milk
1 teaspoon vanilla
1/4 cup sugar
1/4 teaspoon almond extract

Drain cherries reserving juice. Sift flour with baking powder, salt and 1/2 cup sugar. Add shortening, egg, milk and vanilla. Beat at low speed for 2 minutes. Pour into greased 8 inch square pan. Arrange drained cherries over cake batter and sprinkle with 1/4 cup sugar. Add enough water to reserved cherry juice to make 1 cup. Add almond extract and 1/4 teaspoon red food coloring if light sweet cherries are used. Pour juice over cherries and batter. Bake at 325 degrees for 50 minutes. Serve cake drizzled in its own sauce which collects at bottom of pan. Top with whipped cream and toasted almonds. Makes 9 servings.
